

XXVI.

THE PHYSICIAN.

“Medice, cura te ipsum.”—Luc. iv.

He holds out his hand to receive, for inspection, a urinal which Death presents to him, and which contains the water of a decrepit old man whom he introduces, and seems to say to the physician “Canst thou cure this man who is already in my power?”