

THE GAMESTERS.

"Quid prodest homini, si universum mundum lucretur, anima autem sua detrimentum patiatur!"—Mat. xvi.

Death and the Devil are disputing the possession of one of the gamblers, whom both have seized. Another seems to be interceding with the Devil on behalf of his companion, whilst a third is scraping together all the money on the table.