

XIV.

THE ABBOT.

"Ipse morietur, quia non habuit disciplinam, et in multitudine stultitiæ suæ decipietur."

Death having despoiled him of his mitre and crosier, drags him away. The Abbot resists with all his might, and is about to throw his breviary at his adversary.