

Handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is mirrored and difficult to decipher due to fading and the age of the paper. It appears to be organized into two distinct lines of writing.