

Fragmentary text from the adjacent page, including some red initials and dense black script.

Main body of text on the book cover, written in a medieval Gothic script. The text is arranged in several columns and includes several large, ornate blue initials. The text is partially obscured by the four braided rope-like elements and the wear on the leather.

Fragment of text above the first braided element.

Fragment of text above the second braided element.

Fragment of text above the third braided element.

Fragment of text above the fourth braided element.

Text on the spine of the book, including the title and possibly the author's name, written in a medieval script.

