

INDEX

TO

THE SIXTH, SEVENTH, AND EIGHTH VOLUMES.

- Addison, Joseph, VII. 265. His allegory of the Bank of England, VII. 314.
- Aghrim; encampment of Saint Ruth near, VI. 203. Battle of, VI. 204. Great slaughter at, VI. 206.
- Aikenhead, Thomas; case of, VIII. 241.
- Akbar, the Emperor, VI. 242. His immense empire, VI. 242.
- Alexander VIII., Pope, VII. 72.
- Allen, bog of, VI. 186.
- Almonde, Van; commands the Dutch fleet under Russell, VII. 46.
- Alsatia; privileges of, abolished, VIII. 233.
- Althorpe, visit of William III. to, VIII. 73.
- Amboyna; massacre of, referred to, VI. 272.
- Amsterdam, Bank of, VII. 304.
- Annandale, Earl of; proceeds with Montgomery and Ross to London, VI. 67. Returns to Edinburgh, VI. 68. Promises made to him by Mary of Modena, VI. 82. Breaks with the Jacobites and becomes a Williamite again, VI. 83. Retires to Bath, VI. 85. Brought up to London by a warrant, VI. 85. His attendance at the Scottish Parliament of 1693, VII. 189.
- Anderton, William; his unlicensed Jacobite press, VII. 229. Taken into custody, VII. 230. Indicted of high treason, VII. 231. Arguments urged in his favour, VII. 232. Found guilty, VII. 233. Executed, VII. 233.
- Anne, the Princess (afterwards Queen); her letter to her father expressing her wish to atone for her breach of duty to him, VI. 270. Her painful explanation with Queen Mary, VI. 277. The dismissal of Lady Marlborough demanded by the Queen, VI. 280. Anne refuses to comply, and retires to Sion-House, VI. 280. 281. Punishment inflicted on her by the King and Queen, VI. 281. Her public and private deportment, VI. 282. Her

- reconciliation with William, VIII. 26.
- Antrim, Alexander Macdonnell, Earl of; his share in the battle of Boyne, VI. 16. 17.
- Apollonius of Tyana; Blount's translation of the Life of, VII. 165.
- Areopagitica; the, of Milton, pillaged by Blount, VII. 166.
- Argyle, Marquess of; his unworthiness, VII. 9. His influence, VII. 9. His joy at Mac Ian's delay in taking the oath, VII. 9. His plan for the destruction of the people of Glencoe, VII. 17. His regiment, VII. 20. Sent to destroy the people of Glencoe, VII. 20. The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 23. Commands his regiment at Portstown, VII. 102.
- Armstrong, John, VII. 14.
- Army, English; state of that of William III., VI. 10. The army under the command of William in Flanders in 1691, VI. 178. State of the army in Ireland under the command of Ginkell, VI. 184. It takes the field, VI. 192. Increase in the, in 1693, VII. 298.
- Army, Irish; its condition at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 9. Factions in the; distracting the camp, VI. 200. State of, under the command of the Duke of Berwick, VI. 185. Marauding expeditions, VI. 185. 186.
- Clothes and money for, brought from France by Tyrconnell, VI. 190.
- Ashley, Lord; his Speech in the House of Commons on the Bill for Regulating Trials in Cases of Treason, VIII. 106. His philosophy, VIII. 107.
- Ashley, Sir John, VII. 46.
- Ashton, John, VI. 109. Arrested, VI. 112. His trial at the Old Bailey, VI. 129. Executed, VI. 132.
- Assassination; lawfulness of, how regarded by the Roman Catholic Church, VIII. 30. 31. Horror with which Englishmen regard, VIII. 122. Not an Irish, and, till lately, not a Scotch sentiment, VIII. 122.
- Assassination Plot, the, VIII. 112. Plans of the conspirators, VIII. 116. Detected, VIII. 122.
- Assembly General, of the Church of Scotland, VI. 93. Letter from William to the, VI. 94. Its answer, VI. 94. Its protest against the Civil power, VII. 188.
- Association; the, of the House of Commons, VIII. 130.
- Athenian Mercury; the publication so called, VIII. 65.
- Athlone; its great military importance, VI. 194. Its condition, VI. 194. The old castle and bridge, VI. 194. Besieged and taken by General Ginkell, VI. 194—200.

- Its defences repaired and garrisoned by Ginkell, VI. 204.
- Athlone, Earl of; General Ginkell created, VII. 99. Presides at the Court Martial on Grandval, VII. 99.
- Attainder, Bill of, against Sir John Fenwick, VIII. 200.
- Auchinriater, the tacksman, VII. 21. 23.
- Aurengzebe, his magnificence, VI. 243. Dryden's tragedy of Aurengzebe, VI. 243. Quarrel between his officers and the agents of the East India Company, VI. 251. Concludes a peace with the English in India, VI. 256.
- Auverquerque; accompanies William to the siege of Lime- rick, VI. 54. His gallantry at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 94. Compliment paid to him in the House of Com- mons, VII. 115.
- Avaux; Count of, appointed ambassador to the Court of Stockholm, VII. 244.
- Axe Yard, VI. 285.
- Aylesbury, Earl of; his part in a Jacobite plot, VIII. 48. Thrown into the Tower, VIII. 173.
- Baden; Prince of, quarrels with the Elector of Saxony, VII. 212.
- Bailey, the Old; remarkable change in the spirit of the tribunal immediately after the Revolution, VI. 130.
- Balcarras, Colin Lindsay, Earl of; his perjury, VI. 72. His mortification at finding his name not even mentioned in the letter of Mary of Modena to the Club, VI. 82.
- Ballinasloe; head-quarters of Ginkell at, VI. 204.
- Ballymore; besieged and taken by General Ginkell, VI. 193. The forts reconstructed under the direction of Gin- kell, VI. 193.
- Bank of England; its origin, VII. 301. The Bank of Saint George at Genoa, and that at Amsterdam, VII. 304. The National Bank of Paterson, VII. 309. The Bill for in- corporating the Bank passes the Lower House, VII. 311. Discussed in the Lords, VII. 312. Passed, and receives the Royal Assent, VII. 313. The Bank establishment at its commencement compared with its present magnitude, VII. 313. Its interest bound up with the interest of the government, VI. 315. Its importance to the state, VII. 315. Commercial crisis in England, VIII. 156. Lends money to William to conduct the war, VIII. 163.
- Bankers; their prosperity in the debased state of the cur- rency, VIII. 88.
- Banking houses; origin of, in London, VII. 301. The gold- smiths of Lombard Street, VII. 302.
- Barbesieux, the Marquess of;

- made minister of war to Louis XIV., VII. 32. His conduct of the public business, VII. 32. His plan for the assassination of William III., VII. 97. 101.
- Barbour, Serjeant, VII. 21. 23. Ordered by the Scottish Parliament to be prosecuted, VIII. 40.
- Barclay, Robert, the Quaker, VI. 141.
- Barclay, Sir George, VIII. 112. Receives his instructions from James at Saint Germain, VIII. 112. Arrives in London, VIII. 113. Joins with Charnock and Parkyns, VIII. 114. Assisted by other Jacobites, VIII. 115. 116. Discovery of the plot, VIII. 122. His flight to France, VIII. 132.
- Barnardistone, Sir Samuel; his connection with the East India Company, VI. 249.
- Bart, John, the freebooter, VII. 105. His exploits, VII. 105. 106.
- Bartholomew, Saint; hospital of, VII. 56.
- Bartholomew's Fair; the English Admirals Killigrew and Delaval ridiculed at, VII. 235.
- Bates, the bribery agent of Leeds, VIII. 19. His story, VIII. 19. 20.
- Bavaria, Elector of; attends the Congress at the Hague, VI. 120. 122. His government of the Spanish Netherlands, VII. 212. Marches upon Namur, VIII. 49.
- Baxter, Richard; his friendship with Thomas Foley, VII. 278.
- Bayle, VII. 165. note.
- Beaufort, Henry Somerset, Duke of; entertains King William at Badminton, VI. 63.
- Beaumont; commands his regiment at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 10.
- Bedford, Earl of; created Duke of Bedford, VII. 318. See Bedford, Duke of.
- Bedford, Duke of, VII. 318.
- Belfast; its present condition compared with that at the time of the Revolution, VI. 1. 2. Landing of William III. at, VI. 1. Joy of the inhabitants at his arrival, VI. 2. The castle of the Chichesters at, VI. 2.
- Belgrade, siege of, VII. 240.
- Bellefonds, Marshal; appointed to the command of the expedition against England, VII. 34.
- Bengals, India shawls so called, VI. 253.
- Bentley, Richard; his letter to Grævius, VI. 119. note.
- Berkeley, Earl of, appointed to the command of the Channel Fleet, VII. 319. Reaches Brest, VII. 321. The attack unsuccessful, VII. 322. The fleet ravages the coast of France, VII. 325. Undisputed master of the Channel, VIII. 64.

- Berkeley House, the residence of the Princess Anne, VI. 281.
- Bernardi, Major John; his connection with the Assassination Plot, VIII. 116. Arrested, VIII. 128.
- Berwick, James Fitzjames, Duke of; appointed Commander in Chief of the Irish army, VI. 62. Condition of the army under his command, VI. 185. 187. He submits to the tutelage of the military men under his command, VI. 188. Gives himself up to pleasure, VI. 189. Recalled to France, VI. 190. His conduct at the battle of Landen, VII. 217. Taken prisoner, VII. 218. Brought before William, VII. 218. Their behaviour to each other, VII. 218. Berwick exchanged for the Duke of Ormond, VII. 219. His plot against the life of William, VIII. 111. Arrives in London, VIII. 113. Failure of the plot, VIII. 119. Returns to France, VIII. 121.
- Beveridge, appointed to the see of Bath and Wells, VI. 156. His retraction, VI. 156.
- Billop; his arrest of the Jacobite conspirators in the Thames, VI. 112.
- Blackhead, the agent of Robert Young, VII. 60. His part in Young's plot, VII. 60. 64. Brought before the Council, VII. 65. Removed into custody, VII. 65.
- Blount, Charles; his political principles, VII. 164. His infidelity, VII. 165. His Oracles of Reason, VII. 165. His disciple Gildon, VII. 165. His long standing feud with the censors of the press, VII. 165. His Just Vindication of Learning and the Liberty of the Press, VII. 166. His plagiarisms from Milton, VII. 166. His Just and True Character of Edmund Bohun, VII. 167. His trap to ruin Bohun, VII. 168. Circumstances of his death. VII. 174.
- Blues, the Dutch; their part in the battle of Aghrim, VI. 205.
- Boethius, Consolations of; Lord Preston's translation of, VI. 146.
- Bohun, Edmund, appointed censor of the press, VII. 162. His political principles, VII. 162. His championship of the doctrine of passive obedience, VII. 162. Coldness of his friends, VII. 163. His severity to the booksellers, VII. 163. Entrapped by Blount, VII. 168. Removed by order of the House of Commons and sent into confinement, VII. 169.
- Boileau, Stephen; his lyric poem on the victory of Lewis XIV., VII. 86. His verses on the taking of Namur burlesqued by Prior, VIII. 63.

- Boisseleau; obtains the command of the Irish garrison of Limerick, VI. 54.
- Bombay, rising of the garrison and English inhabitants of, against the Deputy Governor, VI. 248.
- Bossuet, Bishop of Meaux, VII. 205.
- Bourbon, Lewis Duke of; his conduct at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93. His conduct at the battle of Landen, VII. 218.
- Boufflers, Marquess of; his encampment near Steinkirk, VII. 90. Assists at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93. Marches, under the command of the King, to Namur, VII. 213. Joins Lorges in the Palatinate, VII. 214. His part in the campaign of 1695, VIII. 46. Throws himself into Namur, VIII. 49. Surrenders the town and retires into the citadel, VIII. 53. Capitulates, VIII. 59. Departs with colours flying and drums beating, VIII. 60. Is arrested, VIII. 60. Liberated, VIII. 62. Welcomed home by Lewis and honours conferred on him, VIII. 62. His meetings with Portland, VIII. 253.
- Bow, St. Mary le, church of, VI. 149.
- Boyle, VI. 228.
- Boyne; beauties of the valley of the, VI. 8. The ford at Oldbridge, VI. 8. Battle of the, VI. 15.
- Bracegirdle, Anne, the actress, VII. 123, Her beauty, VII. 123. The murder of Mountford, VII. 124.
- Brandenburg, Frederic, Elector of; attends the Congress at the Hague, VI. 120.
- Brandenburghers; their courageous conduct at the siege of Namur, VIII. 51—58.
- Bradgate, visit of William III. to, VIII. 75.
- Breadalbane, John Earl of; his character, VII. 2. His tortuous policy, VII. 2. 3. Employed to negotiate with the rebel Highland Chiefs, VII. 3. Conference of the chiefs at his house at Glenorchy, VII. 3. His ungracious treatment of Mac Ian of Glencoe, VII. 4. Returns to London to give an account of his stewardship, VII. 9. His joy at Mac Ian's delay in taking the oath, VII. 9. His plan for the destruction of the people of Glencoe, VII. 17. The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 23. His guilty conscience, VII. 29. Depth of his knavery, VIII. 38.
- Brest, expedition against, VII. 321. Its failure, VII. 322.
- Bribery, official; frightful prevalence of, in 1694, VIII. 12.
- Briscoe, John; his proposal of a Land Bank, VII. 305.

Britain, Little, VII. 163.

Bromley, Bishop's palace at, VII. 60. 63.

Brook, Lord; entertains William III. at Warwick Castle, VIII. 75.

Brunswick Lunenburg, George William I. Duke of; embarrassments caused by him to the Coalition, VII. 74. Made Elector of Hanover, VII. 79. Quarrel of, with the House of Brunswick Wolfenbittel, VII. 212.

Brunswick Wolfenbittel; its quarrel with Brunswick Lunenburg, VII. 212.

Brussels; attacked by Villeroy, VIII. 54.

Buchan; appointed general in chief of the Jacobites in Scotland, VI. 69. Surprised by Sir Thomas Livingstone, and his army routed, VII. 70.

Bulkeley (the Jacobite emissary in England); gains over Godolphin, VI. 170.

Burford; visit of William III. to, VIII. 75.

Burke, Edmund; his view of the National Debt, VII. 140.

Burleigh; visit of William III. to, VIII. 74.

Burnet, Bishop; assists at the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 149. Charged by the Tories with having been the first person who advised the government to contract the National Debt, VII. 137.

Supports the Triennial Bill, VII. 156. Ignominious sentence of the House of Commons on his Pastoral Letter, VII. 169—172. His feelings deeply wounded, VII. 171. Preaches the funeral sermon of Tillotson, VII. 336. His excuse for the conduct of the King respecting the massacre of Glencoe, VIII. 44.

Caermarthen, Thomas Earl of; animosity of the Whigs against him, VI. 103. His mortification at the promotion of Sidney to the Secretaryship, VI. 105. Obtains information of a Jacobite plot, VI. 112. Sends his son to intercept the vessel containing the messengers of the conspirators, VI. 112. Listens to the charges of Jacobitism brought against the Lord Steward and Lord Chamberlain, VI. 134. Attends the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 149. Employs corruption in the House of Lords, VII. 118. Supports the Triennial Bill, VII. 156. Visits Bath for his health, VII. 236. His conduct, VII. 236. Bribed by the East India Company, VII. 239. His capacity thought highly of by William, VII. 279. Created Duke of Leeds, VII. 318. See Leeds, Duke of.

Caermarthen, son of Thomas

- Duke of Leeds; serves in the expedition to Brest, VII. 321. His yacht, the Peregrine, VII. 321.
- Cailemot, Count de; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 16. Mortally wounded, VI. 18.
- Calais; a part of, burnt by the English fleet, VII. 325. Preparations at, for a descent on England, VIII. 121.
- Callieres, VIII. 170. 171.
- Camaret Bay; disaster in, VII. 324.
- Cambon; holds a command under the Duke of Leinster, VII. 102.
- Cameron, Sir Ewan (Lochiel); induces the clans to promise to reassemble, VI. 69. Accidentally wounded, VI. 70. Takes the oath to William and Mary, VII. 7. 15.
- Campbell, Captain (Glenlyon); his part in the massacre of Glencoe, VII. 21—25. His blunders, VII. 24. His guilty conscience, VII. 29. Ordered by the Scottish Parliament to be prosecuted, VIII. 40.
- Campbell, Sir Colin, of Ardkinglass; administers the oath to Mac Ian of Glencoe, VII. 9.
- Cannon, General; becomes second in command to Buchan, VI. 69. Escapes in his shirt from the surprise of Strathspay, VI. 70.
- Capital, investment of; old modes of, VII. 132. Hoarding of coin, VII. 133. Origin of stock-jobbers, VII. 133. A crowd of companies come into existence, VII. 133. The bubble companies of 1692, and time bargains, VII. 134. The National debts of Italy, France, and Holland, VII. 138. The National Debt of England, VII. 138. Its progress up to the present time, VII. 139. 142.
- Carey, Henry, natural son of the Marquess of Halifax, VIII. 7. His talents, VIII. 7.
- Carmichael, Lord; sent by William as Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, VI. 94.
- Carstairs; attends the King to Holland, VII. 187.
- Carter; Rear Admiral, VII. 46. His conduct at La Hogue, VII. 49. Killed, VII. 49. Buried with honour, VII. 55.
- Castle Howard, VIII. 74.
- Catalonia; advantages gained by the French in, VI. 179. The viceroy of, routed by Noailles on the banks of the Tar, VII. 325.
- Catechism, the Longer and Shorter, of the Scottish Church, VI. 76.
- Catinat, Marshal; marches with a French army into Savoy, VI. 96. Defeats the Duke of Savoy at Marsiglia, VII. 240. Occupies Piedmont, VIII. 170.

- Censorship of the Press, VII. 160. et seq.
- Chamberlayne, Doctor Hugh; his proposal of a Land Bank, VII. 305. Act of Parliament passed establishing a Bank on his plan, VIII. 152.
- Chambers; his part in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 119.
- Characteristics; the, of Lord Shaftesbury, VIII. 107.
- Charleroy; besieged and taken by the French, VII. 225.
- Charles II.; receives presents from the chairman of the East India Company, VI. 249.
- Charles II. of Spain; his wretched education, VII. 76. His minister Gastanaga, VII. 76. His conduct in 1697, VIII. 245. Difficulties caused by him, VIII. 257.
- Charles Frederick, Duke of Wirtemberg; commands the Danish mercenaries at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. 17. 18. Joins Marlborough at Cork, VI. 64. His dispute with Marlborough, VI. 64. The quarrel accommodated, VI. 65.
- Charnock, Robert, VIII. 32. Leads the life of a conspirator, VIII. 32. Selected by the Jacobite plotters to go to St. Germain's to confer with James, VIII. 48. Joins Barclay in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 114. Taken into custody, VIII. 128. Found guilty, VIII. 134. His execution, VIII. 137.
- Chartres, Philip, Duke of; his conduct at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93. 96. His conduct at the battle of Landen, VII. 219.
- Chatham; burning of the Dockyard of, by the Dutch, VI. 272.
- Cherbourg; defeat of the French fleet at, VII. 51.
- Chesterfield, Philip Stanhope, Earl of; his descent from George, Marquess of Halifax, VIII. 7. His characters of Cowper and Marlborough, VIII. 204.
- Chichester, family of; their castle at Belfast, VI. 2.
- Child, Sir John, of Surat; appointed general of all the English forces in the East, VI. 250. His death, VI. 257.
- Child, Sir Josiah; his vast wealth, VI. 246. His talents as a merchant, VI. 246. His connection with the house of Beaufort, VI. 247. 249. Especially obnoxious to the Duke of York, VI. 248. Makes his peace with the Court, VI. 249. Becomes the autocrat of the East India Company, VI. 250. His favour at Court, VI. 249. 250. His politics confounded by the Revolution, VI. 252. His unpopularity, VI. 253. His determined fight with the New Company, VI. 257. 258. His refusal of the terms of

- ferred by the Commons' bill remodelling the company, VI. 259. His alarm for the Charter, VII. 238. His supremacy in the East, VII. 287.
- Christina, Queen, VI. 192.
- Church; the vacant sees filled, VI. 147. Sancroft's provision for the episcopal succession among the nonjurors, VI. 154. The new bishops, VI. 156.
- Church of Scotland; legislation respecting the, VI. 74. The law fixing the ecclesiastical constitution of Scotland, VI. 76. The Confession of Faith, and the Longer and Shorter Catechism, VI. 76. The synodical polity reestablished, VI. 77. The power given to the sixty deposed ministers, VI. 77. Patronage abolished, VI. 80. General acquiescence in the new ecclesiastical polity, VI. 86. Meeting of the General Assembly, VI. 93.
- Churchill, George; commands a brigade at the battle of Landen, VII. 218. Takes the Duke of Berwick prisoner, VII. 218.
- Civil List; debates in Parliament on the, VI. 232.
- Clancy, VIII. 173.
- Clarendon, Henry Hyde, Earl of; released and joins a Jacobite conspiracy, VI. 107. Charged by Preston with treasonable conduct, VI. 133. Sent to the Tower, VI. 134. Lenity shown to him, VI. 135.
- Clarges, Sir Thomas, VIII. 77. 78.
- Clerks, commercial; salaries of, in the reign of William III. and Queen Victoria, VII. 314.
- Clipping of coin, VIII. 83. 84. See Coinage.
- Clonmel, abandoned by the Irish troops of James at the approach of William, VI. 48. Visited by the Irish Rapparees, VI. 186.
- Club, the; in a minority, VI. 73. Becomes a laughing stock, VI. 75. The coalition between the Club and the Jacobites dissolved, VI. 81. The chiefs betray each other, VI. 83.
- Coalition, the great, against France; Victor Amadeus joins it, VI. 95. Meeting of the representatives of, at the Hague, VI. 120. et seq. Vices inherent in the nature of coalitions, VI. 126. The foreign policy of William III., VII. 69. Behaviour of the Northern powers, VII. 70. Inclinations of the Pope, VII. 71. Conduct of the allies, VII. 72. The Emperor, VII. 74. Spain, VII. 75. William succeeds in preventing the dissolution of the coalition, VII. 76. New arrangements for the government of the Spanish Netherlands, VII. 79. Lewis takes the field,

- VII. 81. Siege of Namur, VII. 82. Lewis returns to Versailles, VII. 87. Luxembourg, VII. 88. Battle of Steinkirk, VII. 91.
- Cohorn, Menno, Baron; his skill in fortification, VII. 83. Strengthens the defences of Namur, VII. 83. Severely wounded, VII. 84. Directs the siege of Namur under the allies, VIII. 53.
- Coligny, the Admiral, VII. 223.
- Collier, Jeremy; his cruel exultation over the carnage of Landen, VII. 233. Attends Friend and Parkyns to the gallows, VIII. 141. A warrant issued for his apprehension VIII. 142. Conceals himself, VIII. 142. Outlawed, VIII. 143.
- Committee of Advice, the Grand; formed by the House of Commons, VII. 114. Its transactions, VII. 114—119.
- Companies; a crowd of, come into existence, VII. 133. The bubbles of 1692, VII. 134. Ridiculed by satirists, VII. 135.
- Componders; the party of the Jacobites so called, VII. 196. Expedients proposed by them for the restoration of James, VII. 199.
- Compton, Bishop of London; accompanies King William to Holland, VI. 115. His mortification at the elevation of Tillotson, VI. 149. Canvasses London for the Tory Candidate Clarges, VIII. 78.
- Confession of Faith of the Scottish Church, VI. 76. Required to be signed by every office bearer in every University of Scotland, VI. 80.
- Congress of the Hague; meeting of the, VI. 120. 121. Speech of William III. at the, VI. 121.
- Coningsby, Thomas (Lord Justice); appointed Paymaster General of William's army in Ireland, VI. 4. 13. In Dublin, VI. 180. Goes in state to St. Patrick's cathedral, VI. 180. Sentences a man to death without trial, VI. 183. Decision of the House of Commons on this act, VI. 183. His rapacity, VII. 175. Odious to the Englishry of Ireland, VII. 175. Removed, VII. 176.
- Conspiracy; the, of Grandval, VII. 97. See Grandval.
- Conspiracy against the person of King William, VIII. 30. The Conspirators, VIII. 32—33.
- Conti, Armand, Prince of; his conduct at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93.
- Conyngnam, Sir Albert; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 12. His seat near the Boyne, VI. 7. 12.
- Cook, Sir Thomas, chairman of the East India Company, VII. 238. Succeeds

- by bribery in obtaining a new Charter for the Company, VII. 239. Bill passed against him, VIII. 17.
- Cook, the nonjuring divine; his conduct at the execution of Friend and Parkyns, VIII. 141. Arrested, VIII. 142. Set at liberty, VIII. 143.
- Cork, besieged by Marlborough, VI. 65. The Old Fort, VI. 65. The cathedral, VI. 65. The Mall, VI. 65. Grafton Street, VI. 65. Capitulation of the garrison, VI. 65.
- Cornbury, Edward Viscount; included in Young's plot, VII. 61. 62.
- Cornwallis, Charles, Lord; appointed to the Admiralty, VI. 296.
- Corruption, parliamentary; employed by Caermarthen and Trevor, VII. 118.
- Cotentin, the, VII. 39.
- Country party, the, VII. 111.
- Courant, the English; first publication of the, VIII. 66.
- Cowper, William, VIII. 203. 229.
- Craggs, James; his origin, VIII. 11. Examined as to his dealings as an army clothier, VIII. 11. Sent to the Tower, VIII. 11.
- Cranburne, Charles; his share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 117. Arrested, VIII. 128. Tried, VIII. 144. Executed, VIII. 144.
- Creaghts, or Rapparees, of Ulster, VI. 59.
- Crime; increase of, in 1692, VII. 107. 108.
- Cross, Godfrey; executed as a traitor, VI. 106. 107.
- Culloden; people of, burned in the Church of, by the people of Glengarry, VII. 10.
- Cumberland, Richardson; appointed to the see of Peterborough, VI. 156.
- Currency, alarming state of the, VIII. 82. The process of coining previous to the Restoration, VIII. 83. Clipping of coin, VIII. 83. 84. The coining mill in the Tower of London, VIII. 83. Clipped money and milled money, VIII. 83. 84. Counterfeit coiners, VIII. 85. Executions for clipping, VIII. 86. Public sympathy with the clippers, VIII. 86. Condition of the currency in 1695. VIII. 87. Prosperity of the bankers amidst the debasement of the currency, VIII. 90. Plan of Lowndes, VIII. 95. And of Locke, VIII. 95. Expedient of Somers, VIII. 96. Controversy touching the currency, VIII. 102. Parliamentary proceedings, VIII. 102. Panic among the common people, VIII. 104. The Re-coinage Bill passed, VIII. 104. Commercial crisis in England, VIII. 156. Ex-

- chequer Bills, VIII. 159. Efforts made to restore the currency, VIII. 164.
- Cutts, John; commands a regiment at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. Serves in the expedition to Brest, VII. 321. His bravery at the siege of Namur, VIII. 52. 53. Receives a wound in the head, VIII. 58. Storms the palisades, VIII. 58. Takes charge of Fenwick, VIII. 199.
- Dalrymple, Sir James; raised to the peerage with the title of Viscount Stair, VI. 299. See Stair, Viscount.
- Dalrymple, Sir John; his answer to the asperity of Montgomery, VI. 74; appointed prime minister for Scotland in London, VI. 299; designated Master of Stair, VI. 299. See Stair, Master of.
- Danish mercenaries at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. Dreaded by the Irish, VI. 11. 17. 18. Condition of the, VI. 184. Join Ginkell at Ballymore, VI. 193.
- Dartmouth, George Legge, Earl of; joins the Jacobite conspiracy, VI. 107. Charged by Lord Preston with treasonable conduct, VI. 134. Arrested and brought before the Council, VI. 135. Declares his innocence, VI. 135. Completion of his disgrace, VI. 136. His death, VI. 136.
- Dauphin, the, placed under the tutelage of Luxemburg in the Netherlands, VII. 327.
- Debt, National; origin of the, VII. 137. The practice in Italy, VII. 137. In France, VII. 138. In Holland, VII. 139. The bill for raising a million by way of loan passed nem. con., VII. 138. Stages of the growth of the debt up to the present time, VII. 139. 141. Increase of the debt coeval with the increase of the prosperity of the nation, VII. 141. 142. Causes of the predictions of national ruin, VII. 143.
- Declaration; the, of James, VII. 40. Its folly, VII. 40. Effect produced by it in England, VII. 42. The New Declaration of James, VII. 204. Despatched to London, VII. 206. Distributed in England, VII. 206. Its effect, VII. 206.
- De la Rue; his share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 117. Informs Portland of the designs of the conspirators, VIII. 126.
- Delaval, Sir Ralph, VII. 46. His part in the battle of La Hogue, VII. 51. Entrusted (with Killigrew) with the command of the Channel fleet, VII. 184. They command the convoy of the Smyrna fleet, VII. 226.

- Held up to derision in Bartholomew's Fair, VII. 235. Dismissed from his command, VII. 282.
- Denmark; her menacing demeanour, VII. 71.
- Devonshire; rising in, to repel the threatened invasion of the French, VI. 38.
- Devonshire, William Cavendish, Earl of, accompanies William III. to Holland, VI. 115. Splendid banquets given by him at the Hague, VI. 121. Charged by Lord Preston with treasonable conduct, VI. 134. Attends the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 149. Created Duke of Devonshire, VII. 318. See Devonshire, Duke of.
- Devonshire, Duke of; William, Earl of, created, VII. 318.
- De Witt, VII. 138.
- Denyse; taken by Villeroy, VIII. 54.
- Diarmid; the race of, VII. 5.
- Dieppe; destroyed by the English fleet, VII. 325.
- Directory, the, of the Scottish Church, VI. 76.
- Dixmuyde; taken by Villeroy, VIII. 54.
- Dogs; their feast on the battle field of Aghrim, VI. 207.
- Donelagh, VIII. 173.
- Donore, VI. 7. James takes his position at, VI. 8.
- Dorset, Charles Sackville, Earl of; accompanies King William to Holland, VI. 115. Charged by Preston with treasonable conduct, VI. 134. Attends the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 149. Resigns his office of Chamberlain, VIII. 237.
- Douglas, James; commands the Scotch Guards at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 10. 15. Killed at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 94.
- Dover, Henry Jermyn, Lord; receives William's promise of pardon, VI. 99.
- Drogheda, port of, VI. 7. Its condition at present and at the time of the Revolution, VI. 8. Held by James II., VI. 8. Surrenders to the English without a blow, VI. 24.
- Drummond, Captain; ordered by the Scottish Parliament to be prosecuted, VIII. 40.
- Dryden, John; his dedication to the play of Arthur, VI. 41. His tragedy of Aurengzebe, VI. 243. Sum which he received for his translation of the works of Virgil, VII. 337.
- Dublin; fearful agitation in, on the news of the landing of William, VI. 3. The Protestants forbidden to leave their homes after nightfall, VI. 3. The gaols and public buildings crammed with prisoners, VI. 3. Reports in the city respecting the battle of the Boyne, VI. 24. The evil tidings reach the city, VI. 25. Arrival of

- James and the remnant of the defeated army, VI. 26. Evacuated by the French and Irish troops, VI. 27. A provisional government formed to welcome King William, VI. 28. William's entry into the city, VI. 29. Condition of, after its occupation by the Williamites, VI. 180. Its celebration of the anniversaries of William's birthday and landing, VI. 180. Arbitrary acts of Coningsby's government, VI. 183.
- Duleek, pass of; occupied by the Irish, VI. 16. 23. And by the Army of William, VI. 24.
- Dumont; employed to assassinate William III., VII. 98. Betrays Grandval, VII. 99.
- Duncannon, fort of; taken by William III., VI. 48.
- Duncombe, Charles, the banker; his immense gains, VIII. 90.
- Dunfermline, Earl of; his ill-treatment at the Court of St. Germans, VII. 196.
- Dunkirk, the English fleet at, VII. 325.
- Dunlop, the Presbyterian minister, VI. 83.
- Dunton, John; his paper, the Athenian Mercury, VIII. 65.
- Durant; his part in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 119.
- D'Usson, General; accompanies Saint Ruth to Ireland, VI. 191. Entrusted with the defence of Athlone, VI. 196. Surprised by the English, VI. 198. Trampled under foot, and nearly killed, VI. 200. Repairs to Galway, VI. 201. Besieged in Limerick, VI. 208. Capitulates, and retires to Limerick, VI. 208. In chief command there, VI. 211. Surrenders Limerick to Ginkell, VI. 221.
- Dutch; the Dutch Blues at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. 13. 16. 17. 18. Their joy on the arrival of William in Holland, VI. 16. 17. Jealousy with which they were regarded by Englishmen, VI. 271. The two nations reconciled, VI. 272. Outcry against those employed about William, VI. 272. Disliked by the Commons, VII. 14. Hated in the House of Peers, VII. 119. Disliked by Englishmen, VII. 296. Their part in the siege of Namur, VIII. 52—59.
- Dyer; his manuscript newsletters, VII. 333.
- Dykvelt; arrests Marshal Boufflers, VIII. 60.
- East India Company; foundation of the, VI. 242. Its first name, VI. 242. Its sway in the City of London, VI. 244. The old India House, VI. 244. Prosperity enjoyed by it during the reign of Charles II., VI. 244. 245. The Company attacked by enemies

- from without and dissensions within, VI. 247. The private interlopers, VI. 247. Disaffection spread by them in the East, VI. 248. The Governor, Sir Josiah Child, makes his peace with the Court, VI. 249. Makes presents to Charles II. and James II., VI. 249. The Charter confirmed and extended by James II., VI. 250. Its captains permitted to hoist the royal ensign, VI. 250. Its servile homage to the throne, VI. 250. Quarrel between its agents and the Mogul government, VI. 250. Its position at the Revolution, VI. 252. Discussions for and against the continuance of its monopoly, VI. 253. 254. The New and Old Companies, VI. 256. Petitions presented to Parliament from both Companies, VI. 257. 258. Bill brought in by the House of Commons for remodelling the Old Company, VI. 259. The terms offered by the bill rejected by the proprietors, VI. 259. The King declares his inability to dissolve the Old Company, VI. 260. VII. 126. The subject discussed in the Commons, and adjourned, VII. 126. A new Charter obtained by bribery, VII. 239. Renewal of the conflict between the two Companies, VII. 239. Debates about the trade with India resumed in Parliament, VII. 284. 285. The case of the Redbridge, VII. 285. Parliamentary inquiry into the accounts of the Company, VIII. 15.
- Eigg, inhabitants of; their treatment of the Macleods, VII. 10. The Macleods' retaliation, VII. 10.
- Elections; Bill of the Regulation of, VIII. 149.
- Elizabeth; Queen, monopolies created during her reign, VI. 241. Abolished by her, VI. 241.
- Elliot; the Jacobite, VI. 109. Arrested, VI. 112. Not brought to trial, VI. 132.
- Ely, Bishop of; joins the Jacobite conspiracy, VI. 107.
- Emancipation; Roman Catholic, VI. 237. 338.
- England; antipathy of the English to the French, VI. 41. Attempt of Tourville to make a descent on England, VI. 35. The country in arms, VI. 37. 38. The nobles of, had ceased in 1691 to be a military class, VI. 178. 179. Taste for the productions of the East, VI. 244. Outcry against the importation of the manufactures of the East, VI. 253. Preparations of the French for an invasion of England, VII. 33. Arrangements made in England to repel the invasion, VII. 38. Effect of James's Declaration throughout the kingdom, VII. 42. Rejoicings on the news of the battle of La Hogue, VII. 53. State of the public mind during the anticipated invasion of the French, VII. 56. The war with France the people's war, VII. 73. French privateers in the English Channel, VII. 105. John Bart and Du Guay Trouin, VII. 105. 106. Distress in England, VII. 106. Increase in crime, VII. 107. 108. Debate in Parliament on the state of the nation, VII. 113. Condition of the kingdom compared with that of France in 1692, VII. 129. 130. Increase of the riches of the nation, VII. 131. Origin of the National Debt, VII. 132. et seq. Increase of prosperity coeval with the increase of the Debt, VII. 141. 142. Miscarriage of the Smyrna fleet, VII. 225. Elasticity of the English resources, VII. 241. Foundation of the Bank of England, VII. 301. et seq. England's maritime superiority established, VIII. 63. Alarming state of the currency, VIII. 82. State of the kingdom on the discovery of the Assassination Plot, VIII. 130. The whole nation signs the Association, VIII. 146. Commercial crisis in England, VIII. 156. Financial crisis, VIII. 160. Distress of the people: their temper and conduct, VIII. 166. Meeting of Parliament, VIII. 185. State of the country, VIII. 186. Return of prosperity, VIII. 189. Restoration of the finances, VIII. 191. Terms of peace between England and France settled, VIII. 255. The Treaty of Ryswick signed, VIII. 260. Anxiety of the nation, VIII. 261. Arrival of news of the peace, VIII. 262. Thanksgiving Day, VIII. 266. Prosperity of the kingdom, VIII. 267—268.

English; their jealousy of the Dutch, VI. 271. The two nations reconciled, VI. 272. Enniskillen; bravery of the Enniskillen dragoons, VI. 12. Their part in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 19.

Episcopalians of Scotland; their complaints, VI. 87. Their contempt for the extreme Presbyterians, VI. 87. See Clergy, Scottish; Presbyterians.

Estrees, Count of; appointed to the command of the Toulon fleet in the expedition to England, VII. 34. 226. Scatters the Smyrna fleet at Lagos, VII. 227.

Evertsen, Admiral of the Dutch auxiliary fleet; takes the part of prosecutor at the trial of Torrington, VI. 103.

Exchequer Bills; origin of, VIII. 159.

Exeter; its agitation at the ge-

- neral election of 1695, VIII. 80.
- Exeter, Earl of; his Jacobite principles, VIII. 73.
- False witnesses; the, of the 17th century, VI. 288. Oates the founder of the school, VI. 288.
- Fees and salaries of official men; debates in Parliament on the, VI. 233.
- Fenwick, Sir John; his Jacobite plottings, VI. 147. His impertinence to the Queen, VI. 147. VIII. 33. His part in a Jacobite plot, VIII. 48. 172. Captured, VIII. 174. His letter to his wife, VIII. 175. His confession, VIII. 176. Effects of his confession, VIII. 193. Feelings of the Whigs about him, VIII. 194. The King examines him, VIII. 195. Disappearance of the witness Goodman, VIII. 197. Fenwick examined by the House of Commons, VIII. 199. Bill for attainting him brought in, VIII. 199. Intrigues of Monmouth, VIII. 213. Interrogated by the House of Lords, VIII. 216. The Bill of Attainder passed, VIII. 227. Attempts made to save him, VIII. 227. His execution, VIII. 228.
- Fenwick, Lady Mary, VIII. 222. 227.
- Ferguson, James; his communications with James, VI. 37. Taken into custody, VIII. 132.
- Ferguson, Robert; becomes agent between James and Montgomery, VI. 68.
- Filicaja, VI. 39.
- Filmer; doctrines of, VII. 162. 163. His work edited by Bohun, VII. 162.
- Finances; restoration of the, of the country, VIII. 191.
- Financial crisis in England, VIII. 160.
- Finch, Sir Heneage; opposes the Triennial Bill, VII. 157.
- Fisher, Richard; his share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 117. Gives information to Portland of the design, VIII. 124.
- Fitton, Alexander; appointed a commissioner for the government of Ireland, VI. 211.
- Flamsteed, Sir John, VIII. 96.
- Fleet, the English; the ruin caused by Torrington repaired, VI. 232. Placed under the command of Russell, VI. 232. Possesses the undisputed command of the sea, VI. 232. Joins the Dutch fleet, and sails under the command of Russell, VII. 46. Temper of the fleet, VII. 47. Gives battle to the French at La Hogue, VII. 48. The Channel fleet placed under the command of Killigrew and Delaval, VII. 184.
- Fleet, the Dutch; joins the English fleet under Russell, VII. 46.

- Fléurus, battle of, the news carried to William in Ireland, VI. 47.
- Foley, Paul; his parentage and early life, VII. 277. 278. His political principles, VII. 278. His abilities and moral character, VII. 278. His independence, VII. 278. Opposes the increase of the army, VII. 299. Appointed chairman of the Bribery Committee, VIII. 14. Chosen Speaker, VIII. 15.
- Foley, Thomas; his friendship with Baxter, VII. 277.
- Fort William at Inverness built, VI. 70.
- Fox, George; his character, VI. 137. Quotations from his works, VI. 138. note. His expositions of the Sacred Writings, VI. 139. Absurdity of some of his followers, VI. 141. Abilities and attainments of some of them, VI. 141. Leslie's remarks on them, VI. 142. note. Death of Fox, VI. 143.
- Fox, Sir Stephen; elected for the City of London, VIII. 77. Resigns his pretensions to the place of First Lord of the Treasury, VIII. 237.
- Fowler, Bishop; his appointment to the see of Gloucester, VI. 156.
- France; effect produced in France by the news of the battle of the Boyne, VI. 29. Congress of the great coalition formed against, VI. 120. et seq. Her resources, VI. 127. Her advantages in Catalonia and Piedmont, VI. 179. Sends a fleet, with arms, ammunition, and food, with officers to conduct the war in Ireland, VI. 191. A portion of the Irish Roman Catholic troops embarks for France, VI. 223—227. The French fleet refuses battle, VI. 224. Preparations in France for invading England, VII. 33. 34. The French fleet detained in port beyond their time, VII. 46. Puts out to sea under Tourville, VII. 49. Defeated by the English and Dutch fleet under Russell, VII. 49—53. Lewis takes the field himself, VII. 81. Splendour of his camp, VII. 81. His immense army, VII. 82. His siege of Namur, VII. 82. The battle of Steinkirk, VII. 91—95. Distress in France, VII. 107. Distress of France in 1692, VII. 129. 130. 200. National debt of, VII. 137. Failure of the crops in, in 1693, VII. 209. Commencement of the campaign in Brabant, VII. 213. Battle of Landen, VII. 216—223. The victory a dear one for the French, VII. 222. They besiege and take Charleroy, VII. 225. Military successes of France, VII. 240. Distress in France in 1693, VII. 241. Misery of the country districts to keep

- Paris in good humour, VII. 242. The campaign of 1694, VII. 319. The French plan of war, VII. 319. Repulse of the English at Brest, VII. 322. 323. The war carried into Spain, VII. 325. Villeroy chosen to conduct the war in 1695, VIII. 44. Loss of Namur, VIII. 59. The French navy shut up in Toulon, VIII. 64. Preparations for a descent on England, VIII. 121. Distress of France in 1696, VIII. 155. Negotiations for peace opened, VIII. 170. Terms of peace between England and France settled, VIII. 255. The treaty of Ryswick signed, VIII. 260.
- Francis, Sir Philip, and Junius, VI. 222. note.
- Fraser, Catalogue; made censor of the press, VII. 161. Compelled by the High Church party to resign, VII. 162.
- Free trade; principles of, between England and India advocated, VI. 255.
- French, the; their mean opinion of the Irish as soldiers, VI. 51. Fleet, arrival of, in the Shannon, VI. 191.
- Fressingfield; the estate of Archbishop Sancroft, VI. 154.
- Friend, Sir John; his part in a Jacobite plot, VIII. 48. Refuses to assist in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 116. Arrested, VIII. 132. Tried for treason, VIII. 138. Found guilty, VIII. 139. His execution, VIII. 141.
- Fuller, William; his plot, VI. 283. His services to the government of William, VI. 285. His desperate fortunes, VI. 286. Admitted to the house of Titus Oates, VI. 287. Announces his discovery of a Jacobite plot, VI. 289. Petitions the House of Commons to hear him, VI. 289. His story to the House, VI. 290. His villany discovered, VI. 291. His punishment, VI. 291.
- Gafney; hanged without trial, VI. 183.
- Galley slaves, VI. 36. 40. An incident related of one, VI. 40.
- Galleys, the French, VI. 35. Character of their crews, VI. 36. 40.
- Galway; its state under the Roman Catholic army of James, VI. 185. Besieged by Ginkell, VI. 208. Capitulates, VI. 208.
- Garraway's Coffeehouse, VII. 134.
- Gastanaga, Marquess of, governor of the Spanish Netherlands; attends the Congress at the Hague, VI. 120. 122. His unfitness for his post, VII. 76. His loss of Mons, VII. 76. Recalled, VII. 79. His mortification, VII. 79.
- Gauden, Dr.; proved to be the - author of the Icon Basilike, VII. 161.

- Gazette, the London; the only newspaper in existence at the time of the Revolution, VIII. 64. Its partiality and meagreness, VIII. 65.
- Genoa, Bank of, VII. 304.
- George, Prince of Hesse Darmstadt; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. 13.
- Germain, 'St.; state of the Court of, VII. 192. James's return to, after the battle of La Hogue, VII. 192. Magnificence of the palace and surrounding country, VII. 192. 193. Constant gloom of the Court, VII. 193. The Protestants neglected and the Roman Catholics preferred in all cases, VII. 194. Opinion entertained at St. Germain of Sancroft, VII. 195. Undisputed sway of the Non-compounders at, VII. 198.
- Germans; their taste for wine, VI. 121. Anecdote of one, VI. 121.
- Gerona taken by the French, VII. 325.
- Gildon; the disciple of Charles Blount, VII. 165. His doggrel and slander, VII. 165.
- Ginkell, General; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. Accompanies the King to the siege of Limerick, VI. 54. His control over the Dutch in Ireland, VI. 184. State of his English troops and mercenaries, VI. 184.
- Macaulay, History. VIII.
- He takes the field, VI. 193. Excellent condition of his army, VI. 193. Reduces Ballymore, VI. 193. Besieges and takes Athlone, VI. 193—200. Fixes his headquarters at Ballinasloe, VI. 204. Gains the battle of Aghrim, VI. 204—206. Takes Galway, VI. 208. Lays siege to Limerick, VI. 211. His skill, VI. 212. Consents to negotiate with the besieged, VI. 214. Terms of the capitulation of the city, VI. 217. His dispute with Sarsfield, VI. 219. Rewarded with the Earldom of Athlone, VII. 99. See Athlone, Earl of.
- Glencoe; description of the pass of, VII. 4. Its inhabitants, VII. 5. Mac Ian of Glencoe, VII. 6. et seq. (See Macdonald of Glencoe, and Macdonalds, the, of Glencoe). The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 23. The event not known to the public for some time after its occurrence, VII. 26. The news spread by the nonjurors, VII. 28. The massacre unnoticed in the Scottish Parliament, VII. 190. Inquiry of the Scottish Parliament into the massacre of, VIII. 35. Report of the Committee, VIII. 38. Blame attached to William III. for not having punished the author of the crime, VIII. 44.
- Glengarry, Macdonald of; his quarrel with a Lowland gen-

- tleman, VI. 70. Takes the oath to William and Mary, VII. 9. Revenge of the clan on the people of Culloden, VII. 10.
- Glenlyon. See Campbell, Captain.
- Glenorchy, Castle of, VII. 3. 4.
- Gloucester, the Duke of (son of the Princess Anne), VIII. 72.
- Godfrey, Michael; his share in the foundation of the Bank of England, VII. 309. Visits the headquarters of the allies at the siege of Namur, VIII. 52. Killed there, VIII. 53.
- Godolphin, Lord; favours shown to him by William III., VI. 169. Gained over by the Jacobite Bulkeley, VI. 170. His treason, VI. 170. 171. Marlborough's influence over him, VI. 171. Appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, VI. 297. His prudence and experience in finance, VII. 137. His talents appreciated by William, VII. 279. His resignation, VIII. 194. His denial in the House of treasonable designs, VIII. 216.
- Godwin Sands, VI. 115.
- Goodman, Cardell (Scum Goodman); his career, VIII. 33. His part in a Jacobite plot, VIII. 48. Sent to gaol for rioting, and liberated, VIII. 49. His disappearance, VIII. 197.
- Goree, island of, VI. 115.
- Grafton, Henry Fitzroy, Duke of; has the colonelcy of the First Regiment of Foot Guards conferred on him by William, VI. 64. Accompanies Marlborough on his expedition to the south of Ireland, VI. 64. Struck down at the assault on Cork, VI. 65.
- Grandval; employed to assassinate William III., VII. 97. His assistants, Dumont and Leeftdale, VII. 98. His visit to James at St. Germain's, VII. 98. Betrayed, VII. 99. Arrested and hanged, VII. 99. His confession, VII. 99.
- Grævius, VI. 119.
- Grant, Mrs.; her account of the massacre of Glencoe, VII. 26. note.
- Grants, the; join Sir Thomas Livingstone against the Highlanders, VI. 70.
- Granville, Doctor Dennis; insulted at and forced to quit St. Germain's, VII. 194.
- Grascombe; his Jacobite pamphlets, VIII. 167.
- Great Seal, the, given to Somers, VII. 186.
- Greenwich; Palace of, VII. 56. The Park at, VII. 56. Foundation of the Naval Hospital at, VII. 56. 347. VIII. 265.
- Grey, Lady Jane, VIII. 75.
- Grotius, VI. 121.
- Grumbletonians, the, VII. 111.
- Guy, Henry; his corrupt practices, VIII. 10. Sent to the Tower, VIII. 10.

- Habeas Corpus Act; suspension of the, VIII. 129.
- Hackney coaches of London taxed, VII. 300. The coachmen's petition to the Commons, VIII. 11.
- Hague, the; reception of King William at, VI. 118. 119. The great Congress at, VI. 120. Gaiety of the city, VI. 120.
- Halifax, George Savile, Marquess of; his retirement from public business artfully alluded to by Dryden in the dedication to Arthur, VI. 41. His death, VIII. 6. His descendants, VIII. 7. His character, VIII. 8.
- Hamilton, Anthony; his description of the Court of James at St. Germain's, VII. 193.
- Hamilton, Gustavus; his share in the assault on Athlone, VI. 199.
- Hamilton, Richard; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 16. 17. 18. Wounded, taken prisoner, and brought before William, VI. 20. Exchanged for Mountjoy, VII. 94.
- Hamilton, Duke of; his false, greedy character, VI. 71. Saying of King William respecting him, VI. 71. His indignation at the passing of the clause of the bill for fixing the ecclesiastical constitution of Scotland, which sanctioned the acts of the Western fanatics, VI. 78.
- Appointed Lord High Commissioner in the Parliament of Scotland, VII. 187. His death, VIII. 35.
- Hamilton, Lieutenant Colonel, of Inverness; sent to destroy the Macdonalds of Glencoe, VII. 20. His plans, VII. 22. The massacre, VII. 23. His blundering arrangements, VI. 24. His barbarity, VI. 25. Refuses to appear before the Estates of Scotland respecting the massacre of Glencoe, VIII. 40.
- Hampden, John; fails to obtain a seat at the general election of 1695, VIII. 81. Attends the drawing room of the Duchess of Mazarin, VIII. 81. His suicide, VIII. 81.
- Harcourt, Simon, VIII. 203.
- Harley, Robert; his parentage and early life, VII. 273. His political principles, VII. 274. His abilities, VII. 275. His poetry, VII. 275. note. His moral character, VII. 276. Changes from Whig to Tory, VII. 277. Moves a representation to the throne, VII. 293. Opposes the increase of the army, VII. 299.
- Harley, Sir Edward, VII. 273.
- Harrington, Lord, VII. 228.
- Harris; his newspaper the Intelligence Domestic and Foreign, VIII. 65.
- Hastings, Captain, of the Sandwich; his death at La Hogue,

- VII. 54. Buried with honour, VII. 55.
- Hastings's regiment; at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 10.
- Havre; burnt by the English fleet, VI. 325.
- Hearth money; its odious features, VIII. 103.
- Heathcote, Gilbert, the merchant, VII. 286.
- Heidelberg; sacked by the French under the Duke of Lorges, VII. 240.
- Heinsius, Grand Pensionary of Holland; his high opinion of Marlborough's talents as a general, VI. 176. His correspondence with William III., VII. 76.
- Helena, Saint; rising in, against the East India Company, VI. 248.
- Henderland, chief of, VII. 14.
- Herbert, Edward, VII. 40. Carries the great seal at St. Germain, VII. 198.
- Hespen, Nether; encampment of William III. at, VII. 216.
- Hesse Cassel, Landgrave of; attends the Congress at the Hague, VI. 120.
- Hesse Darmstadt, Landgrave of; attends the Congress at the Hague, VI. 120. Omits to furnish his contingent to the coalition, VII. 212.
- Hesse Darmstadt, Prince George of; his share in the assault on Athlone, VI. 199.
- Hickes, George, Dean of Worcester; his advocacy of the doctrine of Divine right, VII. 197.
- High Church party; their arrogance at the appearance of Walker's book on the Icon Basilike, VII. 161.
- Highlands; the war recommenced, VI. 69. Buchan surprised, and the war extinguished, VI. 70.
- Highlanders; surprised and routed at Strathspey, VI. 69. State of the, in 1690, VII. 1. Appeal of the chiefs to James, VII. 1. James's reply, VII. 1. Breadalbane sent to negotiate with the rebel clans, VII. 2. The Highlanders required to take the oaths to William and Mary, VII. 7. Instances of the vindictiveness of some of the clans, VII. 10. Plans of the Master of Stair for exterminating the unruly clans, VII. 14. 15. William's order for crushing the lawlessness of the clans, VII. 17. 18. The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 23. State of the, taken into the consideration of the Scottish Parliament, VII. 190. Law for the suppression of depredation in the Highlands passed, VII. 190.
- Highwaymen; great numbers of, in 1693, VII. 109.
- Hill, Captain; left in command of Fort William at Inverness, VI. 71. His pursuit of Mrs. Bracegirdle, VII. 123. Murders Mountford, VII. 124.

- Hill, Colonel, Governor of Inverness, VII. 8. His humanity, VII. 20. His uneasiness after the massacre of Glencoe, VII. 29.
- Hindustan; its grandeur under Akbar, VI. 242. And under Aurengzebe, VI. 242.
- Hogue, La; the encampment at, VII. 39. Battle of, VII. 48.
- Holland; visit of William III. to, VI. 115. His second visit to, VI. 176. Prosperity of, in the 17th century, VI. 255. Preference of William III. for, VII. 70. Her war with France the people's war, VII. 71. National debt of, VII. 138. Visit of William III. to, VII. 187.
- Holland; the accomplice of Robert Young, VII. 67.
- Holt, Sir John; presides at the Old Bailey at the trial of Preston and his accomplices, VI. 130—131. Consulted by the Lords respecting the Act for excluding Papists from public trusts in Ireland, VI. 237. Ordered to prepare a new bill, VI. 237.
- Holyrood House, VII. 187.
- Honlaersdyk, VI. 116.
- Hospitals; not one in England at the time of the Revolution, VII. 55. 56.
- Houblon, Sir John; Governor of the Bank of England, VIII. 163.
- Hough, John; attends the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 149.
- Houghton, John; his periodical paper, The Collection for the Improvement of Industry and Trade, VIII. 65.
- Hounslow, the troops at; reviewed by Queen Mary, VI. 39.
- House of Commons; reassembled, VI. 97. A bill introduced, appointing Commissioners to examine and state the public accounts, VI. 98. The Ways and Means, VI. 98. A bill confiscating the estates of the Irish rebels brought in and passed, VI. 99. The bill withdrawn in the Lords, VI. 100. Opening of the Parliament of 1691, VI. 232. Debates on the salaries and fees of official men, VI. 233. Passes an Act excluding Papists from public trust in Ireland, VI. 236. The bill sent back from the Lords, VI. 236. The bill passed, VI. 237. Petitions from the rival East India Companies, VI. 257. Bill for remodelling the East India Company brought in, VI. 259. The terms of the Commons rejected by the Company, VI. 260. Irritation of the House, VI. 260. Presents an address to the King requesting him to dissolve the Old Company, and to incorporate a new one, VI. 260. Debates on the Bill for regulating Trials in cases of High Treason, VI. 261. 265. The bill passed, and sent up to the Lords, VI. 265. The Lords' amendments rejected by the Commons, VI. 265. A free conference held, VI. 266. The bill suffered to drop, VI. 270. Petition from the false witness Fuller, VI. 289. Close of the session, VI. 292. Bill for ascertaining the salaries of the Judges rejected, VI. 292. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 111. Debate on the state of the nation, VII. 113. Consideration of the Bill for the Regulation of Trials for High Treason resumed, VII. 121. The debates on the state of the trade with India resumed, VII. 125. Committee of Supply and of Ways and Means, VII. 127. Fixes a land tax, VII. 127. Quarrel between the Houses respecting the mode of assessment, VII. 130. Committee of Ways and Means, VII. 138. Discussions on Parliamentary Reform, VII. 144. The Place Bill introduced, VII. 150. Passed without a division, VII. 154. The Triennial Bill brought down from the Lords, VII. 156. Irritation of the Houses, VII. 158. Passes the bill, VII. 159. The first parliamentary proceedings on the liberty of the press, VII. 160. Punishes the censor Edmund Bohun, VII. 169. Address to the King on the state of Ireland, VII. 180. William's dislike of the House of Commons, VII. 246. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 279. Its vote condemning the treacherous mismanagement of the fleet, VII. 280. Debates about the trade with India, VII. 284. 285. Bill for the Regulation of Trials for Treason again brought in, VII. 288. Thrown out in the Lords, VII. 288. The Triennial Bill again brought in, but lost, VII. 289. The Lords' bill on the same subject rejected, VII. 291. The Place Bill passed, VII. 291. The King refuses to pass the bill, VII. 292. Resentful and ungovernable mood of the House, VII. 293. Presents a representation to the King, VII. 294. William's answer, VII. 294. Reflex of feeling in the House, VII. 295. The Bill for the Naturalisation of Foreign Protestants, VII. 295. Allowed to drop, VII. 298. Supply, VII. 298. Ways and Means: lottery loan, VII. 299. The bank of England, VII. 301. Parliament prorogued, VII. 315. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 335. Debates on the Lancashire prosecutions, VII. 337. The Place Bill read again thrice, but not passed, VII. 340. The Bill for the Regulation of Trials in cases of Treason again introduced and again lost, VII. 340. The Triennial Bill passes into a law, VII.

340. Death of Queen Mary, VII. 343. An address of condolence moved to the King, VII. 344. Emancipation of the press, VIII. 4. Committee appointed to examine the books of the City of London and the East India Company, VIII. 15. The Speaker Trevor expelled, VIII. 14. Foley chosen Speaker, VIII. 15. Inquiry by a joint Committee of the Lords and Commons, VIII. 18. The Commons order the impeachment of the Duke of Leeds, VIII. 23. The impeachment falls to the ground, VIII. 25. The Parliament dissolved, VIII. 71. The new Parliament of 1695, VIII. 82. State of the currency, VIII. 82. Loyalty of the House, VIII. 100. The Recoinage Bill, VIII. 104. Sent up to the Lords, VIII. 104. Passing of the Act for regulating Trials in cases of Treason, VIII. 106. Proceedings touching the Assassination Plot, VIII. 129. Formation of Association, VIII. 130. 144. Bill for the Regulation of Elections, VIII. 149. Act establishing a Land Bank, VIII. 152. Parliament prorogued, VIII. 154. Meeting of Parliament, VIII. 185. Vigorous resolutions of the House, VIII. 187. Effect of its proceedings on foreign governments, VIII. 190. Proceedings touching Fenwick's confession, VIII. 198. Debates on the bill for attainting Fenwick, VIII. 202. The Bill of Attainder passed, VIII. 226. Bill for regulating Elections, VIII. 229. Bill for regulating the Press, VIII. 231. Bill abolishing the privileges of Whitefriars and the Savoy, VIII. 233. Close of the session, VIII. 235. House of Lords; reassembled, VI. 97. The bill for confiscating the estates of the Irish rebels withdrawn, VI. 100. Opening of the Parliament of 1691, VI. 232. Debates on the bill for excluding Papists from public trust in Ireland, VI. 236. The bill amended and sent back to the Commons, VI. 237. The bill passed, VI. 237. The Bill for regulating Trials in cases of Treason brought up from the Commons, VI. 265. The Lords' amendment rejected by the Commons, VI. 266. A free conference, VI. 266. The bill allowed to drop, VI. 270. Close of the session, VI. 292. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 111. Question of privilege raised by the Lords, VII. 112. Debate on the state of the nation, VII. 113. Quarrel between the Houses respecting the mode of collecting the land tax, VII. 130. Discussions on Parliamentary Reform, VII. 144. The bill excluding placemen

- from Parliament thrown out, VII. 154. The Triennial Bill passed, VII. 156. The first parliamentary proceedings on the liberty of the press, VII. 160. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 279. The Bill for the Regulation of Trials in cases of Treason brought up from the Commons, VII. 288. Thrown out, VII. 288. A bill similar to the Triennial Bill brought in by Monmouth, VII. 290. The bill rejected in the Commons, VII. 290. The Place Bill passed, VII. 291. The Bank Charter Act discussed, VII. 311. The House passes the bill, VII. 312. Parliament prorogued, VII. 313. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 335. Death of Queen Mary, VII. 343. Inquiry by a joint Committee of both Houses into the bribery of the East India Company, VIII. 18. The Duke of Leeds ordered to be impeached, VIII. 23. The Parliament dissolved, VIII. 71. The new Parliament of 1695, VIII. 82. Passing of the Act for regulating Trials in cases of Treason, VIII. 106. Proceedings touching the Assassination Plot, VIII. 129. Discussion on the Association, VIII. 144. Bill for the Regulation of Elections, VIII. 149. Act establishing a Land Bank, VIII. 152. Parliament prorogued, VIII. 154.
- Meeting of Parliament, VIII. 185. Debates on the bill for attainting Fenwick, VIII. 216. Fenwick brought in and interrogated, VIII. 217. The Bill of Attainder passed, VIII. 219. Close of the session, VIII. 235.
- Howe, John ("Jack Howe"); dismissed from his office of Vice Chamberlain, VII. 169. Causes of his dismissal, VII. 170. His ungovernable ferocity against Burnet, VII. 170. Becomes a virulent Tory, VII. 278. Opposes the increase of the army, VII. 299. His speech against the war, VIII. 101.
- Huguenots; their share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. 16. 17. Their merciless persecutor, Saint Ruth, VI. 191. Their part in the siege of Athlone and the battle of Aghrim, VI. 193. 199. 204. Their bravery under Ginkell in Ireland, VI. 192. et seq. And at the battle of Mar-siglia, VII. 240.
- Hume, David; his predictions respecting the national debt, VII. 140.
- Hume, Sir Patrick; created Lord Polwarth, VII. 189. See Polwarth.
- Humieres, Marshal; his army near the Straits of Dover, VI. 1.
- Hunt; the smuggler of Romney Marsh, VIII. 113.

- Huntingdon, Lord; question of privilege raised in the House of Lords respecting his imprisonment in the Tower, VII. 112. His recognisances cancelled, VII. 113.
- Huy, fortress of, taken by the French, VII. 216.
- Icon Basilike; Walker's book on the, VII. 161. How regarded by zealous royalists, VII. 161.
- India; debates in Parliament on the East India trade, VI. 239. et seq. Excitement in the public mind on the subject of the trade with the, VI. 239. Origin of the East India Company, VI. 242. Ignorant admiration with which India was regarded in England, VI. 242. Magnificence of Aurengzebe, VI. 243. 244. Increase in the imports of the productions of, into England, VI. 244. The Deputy Governor of Bombay imprisoned by the inhabitants, VI. 248. Quarrel between the Mogul government and the agents of the East India Company, VI. 250. Peace concluded between the Great Mogul and the English, VI. 256. Debates on the state of the trade with India resumed by the House of Commons, VII. 125. The discussion adjourned, VII. 126. Resumption in Parliament of the debates on the trade with India, VII. 284. et seq.
- India House; the old, VI. 242.
- Innocent XI., Pope, VII. 71.
- Innocent XII., Pope; his reconciliation with Lewis XIV., VII. 72. His policy, VII. 77.
- Inverness; Fort William built and garrisoned, VI. 70.
- Investment of capital. See Capital, investment of.
- Ireland; its state along the march of William III., VI. 6. The battle of the Boyne, VI. 15. Flight of James to France, VI. 27. Surrender of Waterford to William, VI. 48. The Irish army collected at Limerick, VI. 49. Discontent of the French, VI. 50. Siege of Limerick, VI. 52. William returns to England, leaving a commission to govern Ireland, VI. 62. Marlborough's expedition to the south of Ireland. Sails, VI. 63. Cork taken, VI. 65. Kinsale surrenders, VI. 66. Progress of the war in, VI. 179. The whole area of the island divided between the contending races, VI. 179. State of the English part of the kingdom, VI. 180. State of the part of Ireland subject to James, VI. 184. et seq. Return of Tyrconnel, VI. 189. Arrival of a French fleet at Limerick with Saint Ruth on board, VI. 191. The English take the field, VI. 192. Sieges of Ballymore and Athlone,

- VI. 193. 194. The battle of Aghrim, VI. 204. Siege of Galway, VI. 207. Siege of Limerick, VI. 211. Death of the Lord Lieutenant Tyrconnel, VI. 210. State of Ireland after the war, VI. 226. Allusion to the late improvements in, VI. 231. Act of Parliament excluding Papists from public trust in Ireland, VI. 236. The attention of Parliament called to the state of Ireland, VII. 174. Sidney appointed Lord Lieutenant, VII. 176. Sidney recalled, and the government placed in the hands of Lords Justices, VII. 180. Disgust of the Irish at the new Declaration of James, VII. 208. State of Ireland in 1697, VIII. 238.
- Irish troops, VI. 192. Hated by the English Protestants, VII. 36. Their valour at the battle of Marsiglia, VII. 240.
- Italy; national debts of, VII. 137.
- Jacobites; character of the Jacobite press, VI. 42. Methods of distributing their productions, VI. 43. The Jacobite form of Prayer and Humiliation after the battle of the Boyne, VI. 43. Jacobite intrigues with Montgomery, VI. 67. Their army routed at Strathspey, VI. 70. Forswear themselves, VI. 74. Find themselves in a minority, VI. 76. Their rage, VI. 76. Their attack on that clause of the bill for establishing the ecclesiastical constitution of Scotland, which sanctioned the acts of the Western fanatics, VI. 77. Their coalition with the Club dissolved, VI. 81. Letter from Mary of Modena to the Club, VI. 81. Formation of a Jacobite conspiracy, VI. 106. Meeting of the leading conspirators, VI. 107. They determine to send Preston to St. Germain, VI. 109. Papers entrusted to him, VI. 109. Information of the plot given to Caermarthen, VI. 112. Preston and his men arrested, VI. 112. The Jacobites terrorstricken, VI. 114. Trial of the conspirators Preston and Ashton, VI. 129. et seq. Joy of the Jacobites at the fall of Mons, VI. 146. Their roar of execration at the filling up of the vacant sees of the nonjuring bishops, VI. 156. Their clamour on the desertion of Sherlock, VI. 157—164. They gain over Russell, Godolphin, and Marlborough, VI. 167. et seq. Their peculiar abhorrence of Marlborough, VI. 171. Marlborough's plan for restoring James, VI. 270. et seq. His plot disclosed by the Jacobites, VI. 276. The Jacobite arrangements on the French invasion of England, VII. 38.

Severe laws enacted against them by the Scottish Parliament of 1693, VII. 189. Divisions among the English Jacobites, VII. 196. Compounders and Noncompounders, VII. 197. Savage scurrility of the Jacobite libellers, VII. 229. William Anderton, VII. 229. Writings and artifices of the Jacobites, VII. 233. Their strong muster at Bath, VII. 236. Their joy at the probability of a quarrel between William and the House of Commons, VII. 294. Their enemy Trenchard, VII. 328. Jacobite plots against William's person, VIII. 30. Rancorous invective contained in the Jacobite pamphlets against William, VIII. 43. Jacobite plots against the government during William's absence, VIII. 48. Formation of two Jacobite conspiracies, VIII. 110. Hatred of the nation for the very name of Jacobite, VIII. 169. Search for Jacobite conspirators in England, VIII. 172. Their dismay at the news of the Peace of Ryswick, VIII. 262.

Jamaica, earthquake in, VII. 106.

James I.; his patents of monopoly, VI. 241.

James II.; William lands at Carrickfergus, VI. 1. James sets out for the Irish camp near Leinster, VI. 3. Retreats before William's army, VI. 6. Reaches the valley of the Boyne, VI. 7. Pitches his tent on the banks of the river, VI. 8. Condition and number of his army, VI. 9. His army cut to pieces, VI. 20. His flight to Dublin, VI. 21. His ignoble conduct, VI. 21. 22. Loss sustained by his army, VI. 23. Reaches Dublin Castle, VI. 25. Takes leave of the citizens of Dublin, VI. 26. His flight to France, VI. 27. His arrival and reception there, VI. 33. His importunities to Lewis to invade England, VI. 34. Contempt of the French courtiers for him, VI. 35. Discovery of a Jacobite plot, VI. 106—114. Secret communications of some of William's servants with the Court of St. Germain, VI. 165. James's forgiveness of Marlborough, VI. 175. Marlborough's dexterity in evading James's commands, VI. 176. 177. Progress of the war in Ireland, VI. 179. et seq. State of the part of Ireland subject to James, VI. 184. Deputation from the Irish Jacobites to James at St. Germain, VI. 188—189. Siege of Limerick, and dispersion of the Irish army, VI. 211—218. Plan of Marlborough for effecting James's restoration, VI. 270. et seq. James's

- answer to the application of the Highland chiefs for aid, VII. 1. His joy on the death of Louvois, VII. 32. James's impatience to have an expedition sent to England, VII. 33. Lewis determines to invade England, VII. 33. James's belief that the English fleet is friendly to him, VII. 34. His belief in the statements of his English agents, VII. 37. A daughter born to him, VII. 38. He goes down to his army at La Hogue, VII. 39. Holds a Chapter of the Garter, VII. 39. His Declaration, VII. 40. Effect produced by it in England, VII. 42. James's approval of a plan for assassinating William III., VII. 98. Returns to St. Germain after the battle of La Hogue, VII. 192. His mode of life there, VII. 192. et seq. His treatment of his Protestant adherents at the Court of St. Germain, VII. 194. His incurable faults of head and heart, VII. 198. His character, as shown in the Declaration of April 1692, VII. 199. Compelled to make changes in his ministry at St. Germain, VII. 202. His New Declaration, VII. 204. His insincerity, VII. 205. Effect of the New Declaration in England, VII. 206. Receives intelligence from Marlborough of the expedition against Brest, VII. 320. Communicates the information to the French government, VII. 320. Prohibits the Court of St. Germain to go into mourning on the death of his daughter Mary, VIII. 2. James's opinion of the lawfulness of assassination, VIII. 31. His refusal to sanction any attempt on the life of William, VIII. 31. Requested to sanction a plot for assassinating William, VIII. 34. Gives his warrant to Sir George Barclay for a plot against William, VIII. 112. He attempts to prevent a general pacification, VIII. 259.
- James V.; his extermination of the Mosstroopers, VII. 14.
- James's Coffeehouse, St., VI. 179.
- Jeffreys, George Lord; his judgment in the great case of the Monopolies, VI. 242. note. His son, VIII. 219.
- Jennings, Fanny, Lady Tyrconnel, VI. 25.
- Johnson, Julian, VI. 161. His secret press, VII. 164.
- Johnstone; appointed to inform William of the proceedings of the Scottish Parliament, VII. 187.
- Jonathan's Coffeehouse, VII. 134.
- Jones (otherwise Simpson); his Jacobite intrigues, VI. 68.
- Judges; rejection of the bill

- for ascertaining their salaries, VI. 292. Mode of remunerating them, VI. 295.
- Junius and Sir Philip Francis, VI. 222. note.
- Junto the, of the Whig party, VII. 258. Its authority, VII. 258.
- Kean, Edmund, the actor; his descent, VIII. 7.
- Ken, Bishop of Bath and Wells; leaves the bishop's palace at Wells, VI. 153. His retirement at Longleat, VI. 153.
- Kerry; the fierce inhabitants of, VI. 214.
- Kettlewell, John; his theory of Divine right, VII. 197.
- Keyes, Thomas; his share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 116. Arrested, VIII. 132. Tried, VIII. 132. Found guilty, VIII. 134. His execution, VIII. 137.
- Kidder, Richard; appointed to the see of Bath and Wells, VI. 157.
- Kildare, VI. 27.
- Kilkenny; abandoned by the Irish troops at the approach of William, VI. 48.
- Killegrew; entrusted (with Delaval) with the command of the Channel fleet, VII. 184. They command the convoy of the Smyrna fleet, VII. 226. Held up to derision in Bartholomew Fair, VII. 235. Dismissed from his command, VII. 282.
- King, Edward; his share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 117. Arrested, VIII. 132. Tried, VIII. 132. Found guilty, VIII. 134. His execution, VIII. 137.
- King, Doctor William, Dean of St. Patrick's; committed to prison in Dublin, VI. 3. Welcomes the King to Dublin, VI. 28. Preaches before the King in St. Patrick's Cathedral, VI. 29.
- Kinsale; capitulates to Marlborough, VI. 66.
- Kneller; Sir Godfrey, VII. 283.
- Knight, Sir John; his offensive speech respecting the Dutch in England, VII. 297. His speech burned by the hangman, VII. 298. His insolent joy on the death of Queen Mary, VII. 344. Turned out at the general election of 1695, VIII. 80.
- Knightly, Christopher; his share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 117. Arrested, VIII. 132.
- Lagos, Bay of; naval encounter in the, VII. 227.
- Lambeque; headquarters of William III. at, VII. 89.
- Lamplugh, Archbishop of York; his death, VI. 157.
- Lancashire prosecutions, the, VII. 330. Debates in Parliament on the, VII. 337.
- Land Bank; the, of Briscoe and Chamberlayne, VII. 305. Act establishing a, VIII. 152. The - bank ceases to exist, VIII. 162.

- Landen, battle of, VII. 216—224. Appearance of the battle field the following summer, VII. 224.
- Land tax; that of the Long Parliament, VII. 127. That of the Restoration, VII. 128. Origin of the existing land tax, VII. 128. Renewed annually, VII. 128. Made permanent, VII. 129. The tax renewed in the session of 1693—1694, VII. 299.
- Langhorne; the lay agent of the Jesuits in England, VII. 98. note.
- Lanier, Sir John; commands the Queen's regiment of horse at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 10. Killed at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 94.
- Lansdowne, Lord; takes the command of the army for repelling the French invaders, VI. 39. His military experience, VI. 39.
- Lauzun, Antoine, Count of; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 13. 16. Reaches Dublin, VI. 26. Marches out of Dublin, VI. 27. Retires to Limerick, VI. 49. His opinion that Limerick cannot be defended, VI. 49. His impatience to get away from Ireland, VI. 50. Retires to Galway, leaving a strong garrison in Limerick, VI. 53. Goes with Tyrconnel to France, VI. 62.
- Leclerc, VII. 265.
- Leeds, Duke of; Caermarthen created, VII. 318. His ignominy, VIII. 9. Suspected of having received bribes, VIII. 12. Story of his agent Bates, VIII. 19. His defence in the House of Lords, VIII. 21. His speech in the Commons, VIII. 22. The Lords informed that the Commons had resolved to impeach him, VIII. 22. His airs in the House, VIII. 24. His disgrace, VIII. 25.
- Leefdale; employed to assassinate William III., VII. 98. Betrays Grandval, VII. 99.
- Leinster, Duke of; Meinhardt Schomberg created, VII. 102. Commands the army assembled at Portsdown, VII. 102. The troops for the attack on the French coast placed under his command, VII. 102.
- Leopold I., Emperor of Germany; inattentive to the interests of the coalition, VI. 74. His desire to conquer the Turks, VI. 74. His sluggishness in sending succours to Piedmont, VI. 212. His conduct in 1697, VIII. 246. Difficulties caused by him, VIII. 257.
- Leslie, Charles; first publishes an account of Glencoe, VII. 28. note.
- Lestrangle, Roger; appointed censor of the press, VII. 161.

- Removed, VII. 161. Taken into custody, VIII. 132.
- Lewis of Baden; his defeat of the Turks in a great battle, VI. 179. Watches the Turks on the Danube, VII. 88.
- Lewis, Saint, institution of the Order of, VII. 209.
- Lewis XIV.; receives James after his flight from Ireland, VI. 34. Importuned by James to invade England, VI. 34. His admiral, Tourville, attempts a descent, VI. 35. Burnt in effigy in Covent Garden, VI. 63. Congress of the great coalition formed against him, VI. 120. et seq. His resource, VI. 127. Lays siege to Mons, which capitulates, VI. 127—128. Death of his minister Louvois, VII. 31. Appoints the Marquess of Barbesieux to the vacant post, VII. 32. Determines to send an expedition to England, VII. 33. Reconciled to the Pope, VII. 72. Takes the field himself, VII. 81. His magnificent review at Mons VII. 82. Lays siege to Namur, VII. 82. Its capitulation, VII. 84. Arrogance of Lewis, VII. 86. Returns to Versailles, VII. 87. Receives his unfortunate admiral Tourville, VII. 87. His surprise and anger at hearing of the immense sums voted by the English Parliament for carrying on the war, VII. 129. His vast preparations for the campaign of 1693, VII. 209. Institutes the Order of St. Lewis, VII. 209. His opinion of William III., VII. 210. Lewis takes the field, VII. 213. Returns to Versailles, determined not to expose himself in battle, VII. 213. 214. His expedient for keeping Paris in good humour, VII. 242. His overtures for obtaining peace, VII. 244. His plan for compelling Spain to sue for peace, VII. 319. Operations of his troops in Catalonia, VII. 325. Entrusts the campaign of 1695 to Marshal Villeroy, VIII. 44. Poltroonery of Lewis's natural son, the Duke of Maine, VIII. 51. Lewis's vexation, VIII. 51. Difficulties of the campaign of 1696, VIII. 155. Negotiations for peace opened, VIII. 170. Lewis offers terms of peace, VIII. 244. Congress of Ryswick, VIII. 248. Terms of peace settled, VIII. 255. The Treaty of Ryswick signed, VIII. 260.
- L'Hermitage; his letters to Heinsius, VII. 229. note. Account of him, VII. 229. note.
- Licensing Act; history of the, VII. 160. et seq. Determination of the Commons not to renew it, VIII. 5.
- Liege, defence of, left by the people of, to William III., VII. 212.
- Limerick; occupied by the Irish

- troops after the battle of the Boyne, VI. 49. Their determination to hold it, VI. 51. The command given to Boisseleau, VI. 54. Aspect of the town at the time of the Revolution, VI. 54. Its present importance, VI. 55. The old castle, VI. 54. Arrival of Baldearg O'Donnel, VI. 58. The besiegers repulsed, VI. 60. The siege raised, VI. 60. The Duke of Berwick appointed Commander in Chief of the Irish army, VI. 62. Its condition under the dominion of the Irish Roman Catholic army of James, VI. 184. Dissensions among the Irish at, VI. 187. The supreme power in abeyance, VI. 189. Return of Tyrconnel, VI. 189. Distress of the army, VI. 190. 191. Arrival of a French fleet with a supply of provisions, and officers to conduct the war, VI. 191. Saint Ruth commander-in-chief; VI. 191. D'Usson retires to, VI. 207. Tyrconnel's preparations for the defence of, VI. 209. Despondency of the garrison, VI. 210. Second siege of, VI. 211. The confusion at Thomond Bridge, VI. 212. Desire of the besieged to capitulate, VI. 213. Negotiations between them and the besiegers, VI. 214. Capitulation of the city, VI. 215. 216. Terms of the surrender, VI. 218. Treaty of, VI. 218. 219. Discussions in Parliament respecting, VI. 236. et seq.
- Lincoln; visit of William III. to, VIII. 74.
- Lindsay, Lieutenant; his part in the massacre of Glencoe, VII. 21—24. Ordered by the Scottish Parliament to be prosecuted, VIII. 40.
- Literature; character of the Jacobite, of England, VI. 42. English; its character before and since the emancipation of the press, VIII. 69. 70. See Licensing Act; Newspapers; Press.
- Littleton, Sir Thomas; opposes the Triennial Bill, VII. 157. His ability in debate, VII. 157. Appointed a Lord of the Treasury, VIII. 237.
- Livingstone, Sir Thomas (governor of Inverness); surprises and routs the Highlanders at Strathspey, VI. 69.
- Lloyd, Bishop of Norwich; refuses to disown all connection with Turner, Bishop of Ely, VI. 148.
- Lloyd, David (Jacobite emissary in England); gains over Admiral Russell, VI. 169.
- Lochiel. See Cameron, Sir Ewan.
- Locke, John, VIII. 93. His tracts on the state of the currency, VIII. 93. 96. 97. Objections to his plan, VI. 97.
- London; joyful news from Ireland, VI. 31. Effect pro-

- duced by the news of the battle of the Boyne, VI. 31. Its joyful reception of the King on his return from Ireland, VI. 63. Rise and progress of the East India Company, VI. 242. et seq. Rejoicings in London on the news of the battle of La Hogue, VII. 53. Arrival of William III. from the Continent, VII. 101. Miscarriage of the Smyrna fleet, VII. 225. Excitement in the City on the receipt of the intelligence, VII. 228. A deputation waits on the Queen, to represent its grievances, VII. 228. Grand display of fireworks in St. James's Square on the return of William from Flanders, VIII. 76. Interest excited in London by a hanging, VIII. 139. Joy at the tidings of the Peace of Ryswick, VIII. 262. Reception of William on his return from the Continent, VIII. 265.
- Loo; palace and park of, VI. 177.
- Lords Justices; appointed to administer the government of England during William's absence on the Continent, VIII. 26.
- Lorges, Duke of; devastates the Palatinate and sacks Heidelberg, VII. 240.
- Lorraine, Charles, Duke of; his death, VI. 95. A great loss to the coalition, VI. 95.
- Lottery loan; establishment of a, VII. 300. Neale's lottery, VII. 300.
- Loughbrickland; rendezvous of the Protestant forces at, VI. 4.
- Louvain; encampment of William III. at, VII. 216.
- Louvois; his talents as a war minister, VI. 128. His quarrel with the King, VII. 31. His death, VII. 31. His son the Marquis of Barbesieux, VII. 32.
- Lowick, Edward; his share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 117. Executed, VIII. 144.
- Lowlands; state of the, in 1691, VI. 298.
- Lowndes, William; his plan for restoring the currency to a healthy state, VIII. 95. Refuted by John Locke, VIII. 95.
- Lowther, Sir John; assailed in the House on his places and fees, VI. 234. Accepts a seat at the Board of Admiralty, VI. 296. His opinion of foreigners, VII. 114. His defence of Nottingham, VII. 117. Opposes the Triennial Bill, VII. 156.
- Lundie, Ensign; ordered by the Scottish Parliament to be prosecuted, VIII. 40.
- Lunt, the Jacobite agent, VII. 330. Turns approver, VII. 330.
- Luttrell, Henry; his discontent and intrigues, VI. 187. Pro-

- poses to throw Maxwell overboard, VI. 189. Represents the inefficiency of Tyrconnel to James, VI. 189. His perfidy, VI. 210. His desertion, and his reward, VI. 222. Murdered in Dublin, VI. 222. Abhorrence in which his name was held, VI. 222. Junius's remarks on the Luttrells, VI. 222. note.
- Luttrell, Simon; goes in the deputation to St. Germain's, VI. 188. His representations to James respecting Tyrconnel, VI. 189. Deprived of his estate, which is given to his brother Henry, VI. 222.
- Luxemburg, the Duke of; defeats Waldeck at the battle of Fleurus, VI. 47. Lays siege to Mons, VI. 128. Commencement of the campaign in Flanders, VI. 178. Marching and countermarching of the two armies, VI. 178. Occupies the road between Namur and Brussels, VII. 82. Left by Lewis in sole command, VII. 88. His character and personal appearance, VII. 88. His talents as a general, VII. 89. Encamps at Steinkirk, VII. 89. His camp life, VII. 90. Surprised by William and the confederates, VII. 91. Commands the French army opposed to William in Brabant, VII. 216. His superiority in force over the allies, VII. 216. His ruse, VII. 216. The battle of Landen, VII. 216. His inactivity in improving his victory, VII. 223. His celebrated forced march, VII. 328. His death, VIII. 3.
- Macdonald of Glencoe (Mac Ian); his appearance at the Castle of Glenorchy, VII. 4. 6. Description of his habitation of Glencoe, VI. 4. 5. Offended with Breadalbane, VI. 6. His influence in the Highlands, VI. 6. Delays to take the oath to William and Mary, VI. 8. His dismay at the consequences, VI. 8. Takes the oath six days after the time appointed, VI. 9. Cruel joy of his enemies, VI. 9. The certificate of his having taken the oath suppressed, VII. 17. Plans laid for his destruction, VII. 17. Orders signed by the King, VII. 17. His hospitality to the soldiers, VII. 22. His assassination, VII. 25.
- Macdonald of Glengarry; takes the oath to William and Mary, VII. 7.
- Macdonald, John (son of Mac Ian), of Glencoe, VII. 22. 23. Becomes the chief of the clan VII. 25.
- Macdonalds, the, of Glencoe; their marauding character, VII. 5. 6. Instance of their - violence and rapine, VII. 13. Plan formed for their destruction, VII. 17. Order signed by the King for their extirpation, VII. 17. Their feuds with the Campbells, VII. 20. Hamilton sent to destroy them, VII. 20. The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 23. Escape of most of them, VII. 25. Sufferings of the fugitives, VII. 25.

- Macgregors; their horrible vindictiveness, VII. 10.
- Mac Ian of Glencoe. See Macdonald of Glencoe.
- Mackay, Colonel; his unopposed march from Perth to Inverness, VI. 70. Constructs and garrisons Fort William, VI. 70. Serves under Ginkell in Ireland, VI. 192. His share in the assault on Athlone, VI. 194. And in the battle of Aghrim, VI. 204. His conduct at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93. 94. Killed, VI. 94.
- Macleods; their revenge on the inhabitants of Eigg, VII. 10.
- Maine, Duke of; the natural son of Lewis XIV., VIII. 46. Sent with Villeroy to Flanders, VIII. 46. His cowardice VIII. 51.
- Manchester; the Lancashire Jacobites prosecuted at, VII. 333. The judges pelted, VII. 335.
- Manley, John; his speech in the House against the bill for attaining Fenwick, VIII. 201.
- Marlborough, John Lord (afterwards Duke); proposes a plan for reducing Cork and Kinsale, VI. 49. Ordered by the King to execute his plan, VI. 49. Sails for the south of Ireland, VI. 63. His dispute with the Duke of Wirtemberg, VI. 64. The dispute accommodated, VI. 65. He takes Cork, VI. 65. Compels Kinsale to capitulate, VI. 66. Returns to England, VI. 67. Graciously received by the King, VI. 67. Abhorrence in which his name was held by the Jacobites, VI. 171. His interview with Colonel Sackville, VI. 172. His pretended repentance, VI. 172—173. His treason, VI. 174. 175. Informed by his Jacobite friends that he was forgiven, VI. 175. Accompanies William to Holland, VI. 176. High opinion of the Dutch of his superiority as a general, VI. 176. Sent to Flanders to form a camp in the neighbourhood of Brussels, VI. 177. His dexterity in evading the commands of James, VI. 177. His formation of a plot against the government of King William, VI. 270. His power over the Princess Anne, VI. 270. Determines to avail himself of the dislike of the English for

- the Dutch, VI. 273. He undertakes to corrupt the army, VI. 275. His probable position if his schemes had succeeded, VI. 275. His plot disclosed by the Jacobites, VI. 276. Disgraced and forbidden the royal presence, VI. 277. Various reports touching the cause of his disgrace, VI. 277. Included in Young's plot, VII. 60—62. Sent to the Tower, VII. 63. Admitted to bail, VII. 66. Evidence of his perfidy, VII. 66. Robbed by highwaymen near St. Albans, VII. 109. Question of privilege raised in the House of Lords respecting his imprisonment, VII. 112. His recognisances cancelled, VII. 113. Communicates the plan of the expedition to Brest to James, VII. 320. Talmash's death caused by his villany, VII. 320. Real object of his wickedness, VII. 323. Offers his services to the English government, VII. 324. His offer rejected by William, VII. 324. Change in all his schemes through the death of Queen Mary, VIII. 27. His denial in the House of treasonable designs, VIII. 216.
- Marlborough, Sarah Duchess of; her haughtiness and vindictiveness, VI. 279. Her dismissal from the palace demanded by the Queen, VI. 280. Her Vindication, VI. 283. 278. note 281. note.
- Marsiglia, battle of, VII. 240.
- Mary, Queen; her distress at the news from Ireland, VI. 32. Her tender letter to William, VI. 32. Her anxiety for both her husband and her father, VI. 32. England threatened with a French invasion, VI. 35. The whole kingdom in arms, VI. 37. 38. Mary reviews the troops at Hounslow, VI. 39. Her letter to William respecting the plans of Marlborough for reducing Cork and Kinsale, VI. 49. William's return to England, VI. 62. Impertinence of Sir John Fenwick to her, VI. 147. Her painful explanation with the Princess Anne, VI. 277. Demands the dismissal of Lady Marlborough, VI. 280. Anne's refusal to comply, VI. 280. 281. Mary appointed vicegerent in William's absence on the Continent, VII. 30. She reprints James's Declaration, VII. 43. Her alarm at the news of a Jacobite party in the English fleet, VII. 47. Her wise treatment of the evil reports, VII. 47. Her foundation of Greenwich Hospital, VII. 56. Her indignation at the conduct of Howe, VII. 170. William departs for Holland, VII. 187. His letter to Mary after the battle of Landen, VII. 224.

- Her gracious reception of the deputation from the City of London after the disaster to the Smyrna fleet, VII. 228. Clamour of the sailors' wives at Whitehall, VII. 234. Her sorrow at the loss of Tillotson, VII. 337. Her death, VII. 341. The public sorrow, VII. 344. Her funeral, VII. 345. Effect of her death on the Continent, VIII. 1.
- Mary of Modena; delivered of a daughter, VII. 38.
- Maximilian, Emmanuel, Elector of Bavaria; accepts the government of the Spanish Netherlands, VII. 80.
- Maxwell, Thomas; disliked by the Irish Roman Catholics, VI. 188. Sent by Berwick to France, VI. 188. Proposal on board to throw him into the sea, VI. 189. Entrusted with the defence of the shore batteries at Athlone, VI. 195. Taken prisoner, VI. 199. Reviled by the Irish commanders, VI. 200.
- Mazarin, Duchess of, VIII. 81.
- Medina Sidonia, Duke of; watches Noailles in the Pyrenees, VII. 88.
- Megrigny, the French military engineer, VIII. 49.
- Melfort, John Lord; his letter to Mary of Modena, VI. 30. The order of the Garter conferred on him, VII. 39. His name odious to all parties, VII. 39. 40.
- Melloniere, La; holds a command under the Duke of Leinster, VII. 102.
- Melville, Lord High Commissioner of Scotland, VI. 72. His character and abilities, VI. 72. Repeals the Act of Supremacy of Scotland, VI. 75. Commanded by William to obtain toleration for the Episcopalians in Scotland, VI. 298. His timidity, VI. 298. Resigns, VI. 299.
- Mew, Bishop of Winchester; assists at the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 149.
- Middleton, Charles Earl of; his character and abilities, VII. 201. His adherence to the cause of hereditary monarchy, VII. 201. Invited to the Court of St. Germain's, VII. 202. Collects the sense of the leading Compounders, VII. 203. Steals across to St. Germain's, VI. 203. Appointed Secretary of State there with Melfort, VII. 203. Sends a New Declaration of James to England, VII. 205. Its effect, VII. 206. Middleton's account of Versailles, VII. 210.
- Millevoix, the spy, VII. 90. His guilt discovered, VII. 91.
- Millington, Sir Thomas; physician to William III., VII. 341.
- Ministry; changes made in the, by William, VI. 296. A ministry necessary to parlia-

- mentary government, VII. 246. Origin of the English ministry, VII. 247. Its functions, VII. 247. The first ministry gradually formed, VII. 249.
- Mint; the Royal, in the Tower, VIII. 83. 164. Sir Isaac Newton, VIII. 164. See Currency.
- Mitchelburne, Colonel John; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11.
- Modena, Mary of; her letter to the Club of Edinburgh, VI. 81.
- Mogul empire; condition of, under Akbar and Aurengzebe, VI. 242. 243.
- Mohun, Lord; tried for the murder of William Mountford, VII. 124. Acquitted, VII. 125. Serves in the expedition to Brest, VII. 321.
- Molyneux, VI. 228.
- Money; old method of coining, VIII. 83. See Currency.
- Monmouth; his intrigues to save the life of Fenwick, VIII. 213. His speeches, VIII. 219. 221. Proceedings against him, VIII. 222. Sent to the Tower, VIII. 224. His subsequent life, VIII. 225.
- Monopolies; the, created in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, VI. 240. 241. Those granted by James I., VI. 241. The odious features of the monopoly of the East India Company, VII. 285.
- Mons; siege and fall of, VI. 127. Joy of the Jacobites at the event, VI. 146. Gastanaga charged with having sold the fortress to the French, VII. 76.
- Montague, Charles; appointed one of the managers of the Commons on the bill for regulating the trials for treason, VI. 267. His talents, VI. 267. His arguments against the Lords' amendments, VI. 267—269. Appointed to a seat at the Board of Treasury, VI. 297. His talents and position in the House, VI. 297. His daring and inventive qualities as a financier, VII. 137. His proposal to borrow money for the exigencies of the government, VII. 137. 138. His early life, VII. 263. His talents as a debater, VII. 264. His poetry, VII. 264. 265. His rapid rise in Parliament, VII. 265. His ability in administration and debate, VII. 265. Charges of his enemies, VII. 266. His patronage of genius and learning, VII. 267. His faults, VII. 267. His speech on the disaster to the Smyrna fleet, VII. 281. Defends the King in the House of Commons, VII. 293. Returned, at the general election, for the City of London, VIII. 7. His creation of the Bank of England, VIII. 102. et seq. His plan for the restoration of the currency, VIII. 102. His - proposition of the window tax, VIII. 103. His daily increasing influence in the Cabinet, VIII. 192. His speech on the bill for attainting Sir John Fenwick, VIII. 207. Becomes First Lord of the Treasury, VIII. 237.

- Montchevreuil; his conduct at the battle of Landen, VII. 217. Slain there, VII. 222.
- Montgomery, Sir James; his arrival in London with Anandale and Ross, VI. 67. Coldly received by the King, VI. 68. Offers his services to James, VI. 68. Returns to Edinburgh, VI. 69. His confidence in his position in the Scottish Parliament, VI. 72. His faction in a minority, VI. 73. His rage, VI. 73. Promises made to him by Mary of Modena, VI. 82. Breaks with the Jacobites and becomes a Williamite again, VI. 82. 83. Refusal of the King to give him any thing but a pardon, VI. 84. His subsequent life, VI. 84. His miserable life, VII. 315. His visit to Shrewsbury, VII. 315. His death, VII. 332.
- Morel, the Swiss Protestant, VII. 99.
- Moor Park, VII. 181. 183. Visited by King William, VII. 183. Swift's residence there, VII. 183.
- Mountford, William; the actor, VII. 122. His dramatic talents, VII. 122. His comedy of Greenwich Park, VII. 122. note. Murdered, VII. 124.
- Mountjoy, William Stewart Viscount; killed at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 94.
- Mulgrave, John Sheffield, Earl of; his speech in the House of Lords on the Land Tax, VII. 130. Created Marquess of Normanby, VII. 318. See Normanby, Marquess of.
- Mullingar; encampment of the English troops at, VI. 192.
- Musgrave, Sir Christopher, VII. 117. His weight with the Tory party, VII. 272. Opposes the Address, VIII. 100.
- Nagle, Sir Richard; appointed one of the royal commissioners for governing Ireland, VI. 211.
- Namur; strength of the fortress of, VII. 83. Its defences improved by Cohorn, VII. 83. Besieged, VII. 82. Capitulates, VII. 85. Shame and rage of the inhabitants, VII. 85. 86. William III. determines to retake it, VIII. 49. Its military importance, VIII. 50. Its defences as constructed by Cohorn and Vauban, VIII. 51. The allies close round the fortress, VIII. 51. The siege directed by William in person, VIII. 52. Surrenders to the allies, VIII. 53. Capitulation of the Castle, VIII. 59.
- National Debt. See Debt, National.

- Navy; maladministration of the, VII. 101. Its mismanagement voted to be treacherous by the House of Commons, VII. 280. Improvements in the administration of the navy under Russell, VII. 326.
- Neale, the manager of the lottery loan, VII. 300.
- Neerwinden; furious attacks of the French on, VII. 217—219.
- Netherlands, the Spanish; their governor, Gastanaga, VII. 76. 79. His incapacity, VII. 79. William III. invited to take upon himself the government of, VII. 79. The Elector of Bavaria appointed to the government of, VII. 80. Importance of the events in, VII. 87. Military operations in, in 1696, VIII. 155.
- Newcastle, John Holles, Duke of; entertains William III. at Welbeck, VIII. 74.
- Newmarket; its appearance in the 17th century, VIII. 72. Visit of William III. to, VIII. 72.
- Newsletters; the manuscript, of Dyer, VII. 333.
- Newspapers; the London Gazette the only one in existence before the Revolution, VII. 333. Dyer's manuscript newsletters, VII. 333. Their first appearance, VIII. 64. The London Gazette, VIII. 64. The periodical papers, VIII. 65. The Observer, VIII. 65. The Athenian Mercury, VIII. 65. Houghton's Collection, VIII. 65. The Intelligence Domestic and Foreign, VIII. 66. The English Courant, VIII. 66. A crowd of new ones appear, VIII. 66. Appearance of the newspapers of that period, VIII. 66. Leading articles, VIII. 66. The publication of newspapers connived at by the government, VIII. 67. Collection of the early newspapers in the British Museum, VIII. 67. note. Salutory change produced by the emancipation of the press, VIII. 69. Character of the English press of the present time, VIII. 70. Growing importance of newspapers, in 1697, VIII. 232.
- Newton, Sir Isaac; appointed warden of the Mint, VIII. 164.
- Noailles, Marshal; watches the Duke of Medina Sidonia at the Pyrenees, VII. 88. Takes the fortress of Rosas, VII. 240. Ordered to attack Barcelona, VII. 319. His victory on the banks of the Tar, VII. 325.
- Noncompounders; the party of the Jacobites so called, VII. 197. Have undivided sway at St. Germain's, VII. 198.
- Nonhearers of Scotland, the, VI. 93.
- Nonjurors; Clamours against them excited by the appear-

- ance of the Jacobite Form of Prayer and Humiliation, VI. 45. Appearance of a pamphlet suggesting the Dewitting of the nonjuring prelates, VI. 76. The Presbyterian nonjurors of Scotland, VI. 89. Subsequently called the Nonhearers, VI. 93. The vacant sees of the nonjuring bishops filled, VI. 147. (See Ken; Leslie; Lloyd; Sancroft.) Uproar among them on the appointment of the bishops to the vacant sees, VI. 147. et seq. Clamour on the conversion of Sherlock, VI. 157—160. Their publication of the account of the massacre of Glencoe, VII. 28. Their alarm at the effect of James's Declaration in England, VII. 42. 43. Conduct of Jeremy Collier and of Cook and Snatt at the execution of Friend and Parkyns, VIII. 141.
- Norfolk, Duke of; accompanies King William to Holland, VI. 115. Attends the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 150.
- Norfolk, Duchess of, VIII. 214. 224.
- Normanby, Marquess of; Mulgrave created, VII. 318.
- North, Sir Dudley; his opposition to banking, VII. 213. His plan for the restoration of the currency, VIII. 93.
- Northern Powers; their sullen and menacing demeanour, VII. 70. Form the Third Party in Europe, VII. 71. Watched by William, VII. 212.
- Norwich; palace of the nonjuring bishop of, attacked, VI. 46.
- Nottingham, Daniel Finch, Earl of; accompanies William III. to Holland, VI. 122. Blamed by the nation for the inactivity of the fleet, VII. 104. Recriminations between him and the Admiral Russell, VII. 104. His enmity to Russell, VII. 104. Censured by the House of Commons, VII. 116. His defence, VII. 116. His colleague, John Trenchard, VII. 184. Nottingham's integrity thought highly of by William, VII. 280. Retires from office, VII. 283. Riches acquired by him, VII. 284.
- Oates, Titus; the founder of the school of false witnesses, VI. 284. His discontent at the smallness of his pension, VI. 286. His aspirations for ecclesiastical preferment, VI. 286. Admitted to communion among the Baptists, who turn him out, VI. 287. His house at Whitehall, VI. 287. His intimacy with William Fuller, VI. 287. 288. Punishment of his pupil Fuller, VI. 291.

- Observer; the periodical paper so called, VIII. 65.
- O'Donnel, Baldearg (the O'Donnel); his exile at the Spanish Court, VI. 58. Refused permission to go to Ireland, VI. 58. Escapes, and arrives at Limerick, VI. 58. Muster of the Creaghts around him, VI. 59. His notion of independence, VI. 59. Flies with his retainers to Mayo, VI. 207. Goes over to the English camp, VI. 208.
- O'Donnels; their exile at the Court of Spain, VI. 58.
- Oldbridge, fort of the Boyne at, VI. 8. William III. wounded at, VI. 13. The Boyne passed by William at, VI. 16.
- O'Neil, Sir Neil; killed at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 15.
- Oracles of Reason, the; of Blount, VII. 164.
- Ormond, Duke of; entertains King William at the ancient castle of the Butlers, VI. 48. Commands the Life Guards at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 10. 13. Accompanies King William to Holland, VI. 115. His conduct at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93. Wounded and taken prisoner at the battle of Landen, VI. 219. Exchanged for the Duke of Berwick, VI. 219.
- Ostalic; taken by the French, VII. 325.
- Overall, Doctor John, Bishop of Exeter, his treatise on the rights of civil and ecclesiastical governors, VI. 158. Its influence over the opinions of Sherlock, VI. 158. 159.
- Oxford; visited by William, VIII. 75.
- Oxford, Lord; commands the Blues at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 10.
- Palamos; taken by the French, VII. 325.
- Palatinate, devastated by the Duke of Lorges, VII. 241.
- Pale, the, VI. 179. 181. 192.
- Papillon, Thomas; his connection with the East India Company, VI. 228. 229. He retires from the Company, VI. 239. His accusations against it, VI. 243. Chosen chairman of the committee for examining the legality of the East India monopoly, VII. 286.
- Paris; expedient of Lewis XIV. for keeping it in good humour, VII. 243.
- Parkyns, Sir William, VIII. 33. His part in a Jacobite plot, VIII. 47. 48. Joins Barclay in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 114. Arrested, VIII. 131. Tried, VIII. 139. Found guilty, VIII. 139. His execution, VIII. 141.
- Parliament; the Houses reassembled, VI. 95. Opening of the, of 1691, VI. 232. Aspect of affairs, VI. 232. The session closed, VI. 292. Meeting

- of Parliament in 1692, VII. 111. Members corrupted by Caermarthen and Trevor, VII. 147. Discussions in the Houses on Parliamentary Reform, VII. 144. Servility of the Parliament of 1691, VII. 146—148. The nuisance of placemen in Parliament, VII. 148. 149. The Triennial Bill, VII. 155. Remarks on the secrecy of parliamentary proceedings, VII. 159. A ministry necessary to parliamentary government, VII. 246. Commencement of the session of 1693. 1694, VII. 280. Parliament prorogued, VII. 315. Parliamentary inquiries into the corruption of the public offices, VIII. 9. The Parliament dissolved, VII. 70. Meeting of the Parliament of 1695, VII. 82. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 99. Prorogued, VII. 155. Meeting of the Houses, VII. 185. Parliamentary proceedings touching Fenwick's confession, VII. 198. Close of the session, VII. 235.
- Parliament, Scottish; Parliament meets, VI. 71. Melville appointed Lord High Commissioner, VI. 72. The government obtains a majority, VI. 72. An extraordinary supply voted, VI. 74. Ecclesiastical legislation, VI. 74. Two supplementary Acts passed, VI. 80. See Convention, Scottish. Opening of the session of 1697, VIII. 239. Act for settling Schools, VIII. 239. Case of Thomas Aikenhead, VIII. 240. Session of 1693, VII. 187. Its obsequiousness, VII. 189. Its enactments against the Jacobites, VII. 189. Its legislation on ecclesiastical matters, VII. 189. Its silence on the massacre of Glencoe, VII. 190. Session of 1695, VIII. 34. Its inquiry into the massacre of Glencoe, VIII. 35. The Marquess of Tweedale appointed Lord High Commissioner, VIII. 35. Report of the Committee, VIII. 38. Orders the prosecution of the subordinates in the Glencoe massacre, VIII. 40. Close of the session, VIII. 44.
- Parliament, Irish; held in Chester House, VII. 176. Composition of that of 1692, VII. 176. Its limited powers, VII. 176. Proceedings of the session, VII. 177.
- Paternoster Row, VII. 163.
- Paterson, William; his early life, VII. 308. His plan of a national bank, VII. 309. His plan taken up by Montague, VII. 309.
- Patrick, Bishop of Ely; his appointment, VI. 156.
- Patronage, Church; abolished in Scotland VI. 80.
- Paul's, St., cathedral; opening of, VIII. 267.

- Payne, Neville; an agent of the exiled royal family, VI. 68. His antecedents, VI. 68. His intrigues with Montgomery, VI. 68. Arrested and carried to Edinburgh, VI. 86. Subjected to the torture, VI. 86. His bravery, VI. 86. Immured in the Castle of Edinburgh, VI. 86.
- Peers; their privileges in trials, VI. 265. The court of the Lord High Steward, VI. 265. Their ancient invidious privilege, VI. 265. Attempts of the Lords to improve the method of conducting trials of peers for treason, VI. 265. 266.
- Pembroke, Thomas Herbert, Earl of; takes charge of the Privy Seal, VI. 296. Supports the Triennial Bill, VII. 156.
- Pendergrass; gives information to Portland respecting the Assassination Plot, VIII. 125. His interview with William, VIII. 126.
- Penn, William; joins the Jacobite conspiracy, VI. 107. Charged by Preston with reasonable conduct, VI. 133. Warrant issued against him, VI. 137. Attends the burial of George Fox, VI. 137—144. Conceals himself, VI. 144. His singular interview with Sidney, VI. 144. His escape to France, VI. 145. Returns to England, and renews his plots, VI. 145.
- Piedmont; invaded by a French army under Catinat, VI. 96. Advantage gained by the French in, VI. 179.
- Place Bill; again brought into the Commons, and passed, VII. 291. Passes the Lords, VII. 292. The King refuses to pass the bill, VII. 293. Read again thrice, but not passed, VII. 340.
- Placemen; nuisance of, in Parliament, VII. 148—150. The Place Bill, excluding placemen from Parliament, introduced, VII. 150. Reasons for admitting the great functionaries, and excluding the subordinates, VII. 150. 151. Provisions of the bill, VII. 153. Passed by the Commons, but rejected by the Lords VII. 153.
- Plottin Castle, VI. 33.
- Plowden, Francis; appointed one of the Commissioners for the government of Ireland, VI. 216.
- Pollexfen, VI. 20.
- Poll tax, imposed in 1693, VII. 299.
- Polwarth, Patrick Lord; attends the Scottish Parliament of 1693, VII. 189.
- Pope, Alexander; his father's hoard of coin, VII. 133.
- Porter (Lord Justice in Dublin), VI. 180. Goes in state to St. Patrick's Cathedral, VI. 180.
- Porter, George; his character, VIII. 33. His part in a Ja-

- cobite plot, VIII. 47. 48. Sent to gaol and liberated, VIII. 48. His share in the Assassination Plot, VIII. 116. Arrested, VIII. 131. Allowed to turn King's evidence, VIII. 132. Attempts of the Jacobites to corrupt him, VIII. 173.
- Portland, Bentinck, Earl of; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. 13. Accompanies King William to Holland, VI. 115. Sent to consult Temple on the Triennial Bill, VII. 180. Anxiety of William for him after the battle of Landen, VII. 224. An instance of his integrity and honour, VIII. 19. Parliamentary proceedings touching the grant of Crown lands in Wales to Portland VIII. 108. Comes over from Holland for money for William, VIII. 161. His qualities as a negotiator, VIII. 252. His meetings with Boufflers, VIII. 253.
- Port Royal; earthquake at, VII. 106.
- Portsmouth; encampment at, VII. 102.
- Portsmouth; camp formed at, to repel the French, VII. 38.
- Powell, Sir John; made a judge, VII. 231.
- Powis, William Herbert, Earl of; made a Duke by James, VII. 39. The Order of the Garter conferred on him by James, VII. 39.
- Poyning's statute, the, VII. 178.
- Presbyterians; origin of the annual grant of the government to the Presbyterians of Ulster, VI. 4. The law fixing the ecclesiastical constitution of Scotland, VI. 76. Satisfaction of the Presbyterians on the whole at the new ecclesiastical polity, VI. 89. The Presbyterian non-jurors, VI. 89. The reformed Presbytery, VI. 92. note.
- Press, liberty of the; first parliamentary discussions on the, VII. 160. History of the Licensing Act, VII. 160. et seq. The censor Roger Lestranger, VII. 161. Catalogue Fraser, VII. 161. Edmund Bohun, VII. 162. Charles Blount, VII. 164. War between Blount and the censors, VII. 166. The Licensing Act passed, VII. 173. 174. Arguments in favour of the liberty of the press, VII. 170. 171. The unlicensed press of Anderton, VII. 229. Emancipation of the press, VIII. 4. Its effect, VIII. 14. Salutary change produced by the emancipation of the press, VIII. 69. Bill for the Regulation of the Press lost in the House of Commons, VIII. 232. See Newspapers.
- Preston, Lord; joins the Jacobite conspiracy, VI. 107. Proposal to send him to St. Germain's, VI. 108. Papers

- entrusted to him, VI. 108. He and his companions arrested in the Thames, VI. 112. His trial at the Old Bailey, VI. 129. His irresolution and confessions, VI. 132. Brought before the council, VI. 135. Pardoned, VI. 145. His subsequent life, VI. 146.
- Printing offices, the, of the Jacobites, VI. 43.
- Prior, Matthew; his burlesque of Boileau's verses on the taking of Namur, VIII. 63.
- Privilege; question of, raised by the Lords, VII. 112. Strength of privilege compared with the weakness of law, VII. 124.
- Protestants; joy of the Protestants of Ireland on the landing of William at Belfast, VI. 1—3. Proclamation in Dublin forbidding them to leave their homes after nightfall, VI. 3. Their fierce and implacable desire to trample down the Irish, VI. 11. The battle of the Boyne, VI. 15. Their joy in Dublin after the battle of the Boyne, VI. 27. Booty taken by the victors of the Boyne, VI. 28. protected by William III., VI. 125. Subject the Irish Roman Catholics to a rigorous system of police, VI. 181. The English army in Ireland takes the field, VI. 192. Sieges of Ballymore and Athlone, VI. 193. The battle of Aghrim, VI. 204—206. Absolute domination of the Protestants in Ireland, VI. 226. Act excluding the Roman Catholics from offices of public trust in Ireland, VI. 236. Insults daily offered to the Protestant adherents of James at St. Germain's, VII. 194—196. A Bill for the Naturalisation of Foreign Protestants brought into Parliament, VII. 295. Allowed to drop, VII. 298.
- Puffendorf, VI. 121.
- Racine; attends Lewis XIV. in the field, VII. 81. 82.
- Radcliffe, the physician, VII. 341.
- Rapparees, the, VI. 185.
- Recoinage Bill, the, VIII. 104.
- Reform, Parliamentary; discussions respecting, VII. 144. The Place Bill, VII. 150. The Triennial Bill, VII. 155. Inconsistency of the Reformers, VII. 158.
- Revenue, the, of 1662. 1693. VII. 131.
- Robart; the Duke of Leeds' man of business, VIII. 19. 23.
- Rochester, Lawrence Hyde, Earl of; sworn of the Council, VI. 296.
- Roman Catholics; the battle of the Boyne, VI. 15. Their low military reputation, VI. 51. A bill brought into the House of Commons confiscating the estates of all Papists who had joined in the - Irish rebellion, VI. 98. Their sufferings shortly before the Revolution, VI. 129.

130. Subjected by the English to a rigorous system of police within the pale, VI. 181. Their revenge, VI. 182. Dissensions among the Irish at Limerick, VI. 187. Defeated at Ballymore and Athlone, VI. 193. The battle of Aghrim, VI. 204—206. The defeated army retreats to Limerick and Galway, VI. 207. Cowardice of the Irish horse at the siege of Limerick, VI. 212. Capitulation of Limerick, VI. 218. 219. The troops required to make their election between their country and France, VI. 220. Most of them volunteer for France, VI. 221. Many of them desert, VI. 223. Misery of the families of those left behind, VI. 224. Complete submission of the Roman Catholics, VI. 226. Celebrated Irish exiles, VI. 226. 227. Act passed excluding Roman Catholics from public trust in Ireland, VI. 236. Debates in Parliament respecting the treaty of Limerick, VI. 236. et seq. Preparations of the Roman Catholics and Jacobites of the north of England to assist the French on their landing in England, VII. 38.
- Rome; effect produced at, by the news of the battle of the Boyne, VI. 30.
- Rooke, Rear Admiral Sir George; convoys King William to Holland, VI. 115. Joins the fleet under Russell, VII. 46. His defeat of the French at La Hogue, VII. 52. Convoys the Smyrna fleet, VII. 227. Saves his squadron from destruction at the Bay of Lagos, VII. 227. Gets safe to Cork, VII. 228. His evidence before the House of Commons respecting the Smyrna fleet, VII. 233.
- Rookwood, Ambrose; his connection with the Assassination Plot, VIII. 115. Arrested, VIII. 128. Tried, VIII. 143. Executed, VIII. 144.
- Rosas; fortress of, taken by the French, VII. 241.
- Ross, Lord; proceeds with Montgomery and Annandale to London, VI. 68. Returns to Edinburgh, VI. 69. Promises made to him by Mary of Modena, VI. 82. Breaks with the Jacobites and becomes a Williamite again, VI. 83. Turns informer, VI. 83. Attends the Scottish Parliament of 1693, VII. 189.
- Royston; case of military exaction at, VIII. 9.
- Russell, Edward (afterwards Earl of Orford); elevated to the rank of Admiral of the Fleet, VI. 167. His letter to William, VI. 168. His treasonable conduct, VI. 168. Offers battle to the French fleet, but is refused, VI.

232. His conduct, VII. 35. His anger at the Declaration of James, VII. 44. Gives battle to Tourville, VII. 49. Considers it not advisable to attack the French coast, VII. 102. Returns to England, VII. 102. Blamed by the nation, VII. 102. Recriminations exchanged between him and Nottingham, VII. 103. His enmity to Nottingham, VII. 103. Charged with mismanagement in the conduct of the fleet, VII. 116. 117. His defence, VII. 117. Declared faultless by the Commons, VII. 118. Removed from the command of the fleet, VII. 185. His influence in the Whig party, VII. 259. 260. Personally disliked by the King, VII. 280. Appointed First Lord of the Admiralty, VII. 282. Appointed to the command of the Channel fleet, VII. 283. Takes the fleet to the Mediterranean, VII. 321. Compels the French to leave Catalonia, VII. 325. Improvements in the navy under his administration, VII. 326. Undisputed master of the Mediterranean, VIII. 63. His popularity, VIII. 78. Returned for Middlesex, VIII. 80. Created Earl of Orford, VIII. 236.
- Ruth, Saint; sent from France as commander-in-chief of the Irish army, VI. 191. His merciless character, VI. 191.
- His strenuous exertions to discipline the Irish troops, VI. 192. Takes the field at the head of a large army, VI. 196. Reinforces the garrison of Athlone, VI. 196. Interference of Tyrconnel in the field, VI. 196. 197. Saint Ruth's dislike of Sarsfield, VI. 197. His dismay at the loss of Athlone, VI. 200. Retreats towards Galway, VI. 200. His temper, VI. 202. His determination to fight, VI. 202. Pitches his tent near Aghrim, VI. 202. Administers religious stimulants to his army, VI. 203. Killed at the battle of Aghrim, VI. 205.
- Ruvigny, Marquess of (eldest son of the refugee); serves under Ginkell in Ireland, VI. 192. His share in the siege of Athlone, VI. 198. And in the battle of Aghrim, VI. 205. His interview with Sarsfield, VI. 215. Created Earl of Galway, VII. 102. (See Galway, Earl of.) Taken prisoner at the battle of Landen, but generously permitted to escape, VII. 219.
- Ryswick; Congress of, VIII. 248. The Treaty of Ryswick signed, VIII. 260.
- Sackville, Colonel George (the Jacobite); his interview with Marlborough, VI. 172.
- Salaries and fees of official

- men; debates in Parliament on the, VI. 233.
- Salisbury, James Cecil, Earl of; included in Young's plot, VII. 60—62.
- Salt; tax on, VIII. 154.
- Sancroft, Archbishop; his delusion as to his own importance, VI. 151. His refusal to vacate Lambeth Palace, VI. 152. Compelled to leave, VI. 152. His determination to injure the Church as much as possible, VI. 153. His difference with Ken, VI. 153. His hatred to the Established Church, VI. 154. His provision for the episcopal succession among the nonjurors, VI. 154. Included in Young's plot, VII. 60—62. Opinion entertained of him at St. Germans, VII. 200.
- Sarsfield, Patrick; present at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 14. Accompanies the King in his flight to Dublin, VI. 22. His resistance at Limerick, VI. 52. His despondency, VI. 55. His surprise of the English artillery, VI. 55. His popularity with his countrymen, VI. 57. Takes the lead during the abeyance of authority in Limerick, VI. 189. Patent of peerage sent to him by James, VI. 190. Fortifies Ballymore, VI. 193. Disliked by both Tyrconnel and Saint Ruth, VI. 197. His immense influence over his retainers, VI. 197. His disinclination to hazarding a battle, VI. 201. His position at the battle of Aghrim, VI. 205. Covers the retreat of the defeated Irish troops, VI. 206. His part in the siege of Limerick, VI. 209. His interview with the Marquess of Ru-vigny, VI. 214. His dispute with Ginkell, VI. 219. Induces a large part of the Irish army to accompany him to France, VI. 221. 223. Desertion of many of them, VI. 223. They sail for France, VI. 226. Appointed to the command of the Irish troops in the French expedition to England, VII. 33. Mortally wounded at Landen, VII. 222.
- Savoy, Duke of; defeated by the French at Marsiglia, VII. 241. Deserts the coalition, VIII. 170.
- Savoy, the; its privileges abolished, VIII. 233.
- Saxony, Elector of; embarrassments caused by him, VII. 74. Quarrels with the Prince of Baden, VII. 212.
- Schomberg, Frederic, Count of; meets William at Belfast, VI. 1. Gives the country information by signals of the King's arrival, VI. 2. The battle of the Boyne, VI. 15. Schomberg's sullenness, VI. 15. His brave charge with the Huguenot regiments, VI. 19. Killed at their head, VI.

19. Honours paid to his corpse, VI. 24.
- Schomberg, Meinhart; commands the right wing of the English at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 15. Turns the left flank of the Irish army, VI. 15. Rewarded with the title of Duke of Leinster, VII. 102.
- Schools; establishment of, in Scotland, VIII. 240. Good effects of the national system of education, VIII. 240. 241.
- Scotch Presbyterian Eloquence displayed; the book so called, VI. 88.
- Scotland; improvement in the aspect of things in Scotland, VI. 67. Intrigues of Montgomery with the Jacobites, VI. 67. War in the Highlands, VI. 69. The spirit of the clans effectually cowed, VI. 70. Ecclesiastical legislation, VI. 74. General acquiescence in the new ecclesiastical polity, VI. 86. Complaints of the Episcopalians, VI. 87. The Presbyterian nonjurors, VI. 89. Ministerial changes in, VI. 298. et sq. State of the Highlands, VII. 1. The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 13. Meeting of the Scottish Parliament in 1693, VII. 187. And in 1695, VIII. 34. Inquiry into the massacre of Glencoe, VIII. 35. State of Scotland in 1697, VIII. 239. Reassembling of the Parliament, VIII. 239. The Act for settling Schools, VIII. 240.
- Sedley, Catharine; her letter to King James, VI. 109.
- Seymour, Sir Edward; sworn of the Council, VI. 296. Soothed and flattered by William, VI. 297. His opinion of foreigners, VII. 114. 115. Opposes the Triennial Bill, VII. 156. Bribed by the East India Company, VII. 240. His influence over his party partially lost, VII. 273. Dismissed from the Treasury, VII. 318. Suspected of having received bribes, VIII. 12. 16. Opposed at Exeter at the general election of 1695, VIII. 80. Defeated, VIII. 81. Returned for Totness, VIII. 81. His speech against the bill for attainting Fenwick, VIII. 201.
- Shadwell, Thomas; his volunteers, VI. 179. note. His drama of the Stockjobbers, VII. 236.
- Shaftesbury, third Earl of; his character of Thomas Wharton, VII. 272.
- Shannon; French fleet in the, VI. 191.
- Shakspeare, William; his Tempest, as presented under the title of the Enchanted Island, VI. 282. note.
- Sharp, Archhishop of York, VI. 156.
- Sherlock, Doctor William; appointed to the Deanery of St Paul's, VI. 157. Story of - his conversion from Jacobitism, VI. 157. 158. Publishes his views, VI. 159. Pasquinades on him, VI. 159. And on his wife, VI. 160.

- Shovel, Sir Cloudesley; conveys King William to Holland, VI. 115. Joins the fleet under Russell, VII. 46.
- Showers, Sir Bartholomew, VIII. 143.
- Shrewsbury, Charles Earl of; his correspondence with St. Germans, VI. 165. His subsequent remorse, VI. 166. Brings in the Triennial Bill, VII. 155. His refusal of office, VII. 284. Receives a pressing letter from Elizabeth Villiers, VII. 284. And from Wharton and Russell, VII. 285. Real causes of his refusal, VII. 285. Visited by Sir James Montgomery, VII. 315. Induced by the King to accept the seals, VII. 316. Rewarded with a Dukedom and the Garter, VII. 316. Entertains William III. in the Wolds, VIII. 75. His nervousness at the confession of Fenwick, VIII. 183. His position and feelings, VIII. 225.
- Sidney, Lord Godolphin (afterwards Lord Romney); the vacant seals given to him, VI. 105. Mortification of Caermarthen at the appointment, VI. 106. His strange interview with William Penn, VI. 144. Appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, VII. 175. Fails to conciliate the Englishry, VII. 175. 176. Holds a Parliament in Dublin, VII. 176. Puts an end to the session, VII. 179. Recalled, VII. 180. Created Earl of Romney and Master of the Ordnance, VII. 76.
- Simon, Saint, Duke of, VII. 33. note. Attends Lewis XIV. on his campaign in the Netherlands, VII. 81. 86.
- Sion House, VI. 281.
- Sixtus V.; his extermination of outlaws in the Papal dominion, VII. 14.
- Skinners' Company; the, VI. 257. The Skinners' Hall, VI. 257.
- Slane Castle, VI. 7.
- Small-pox; its ravages, VII. 341.
- Smith, Aaron; examined by the Lords as to the committal of Marlborough and Huntingdon to the Tower, VII. 113. His connection with John Trenchard, VII. 185. His hatred of the Jacobites, VII. 328. 330. The Lancashire prosecutions, VII. 330. Ordered to the bar of the House, VII. 338.
- Smith, Adam; his view of the National Debt, VII. 140.
- Smith, John; appointed to a commissionership of the Treasury, VII. 318.
- Smith, Matthew, the spy, VIII. 225.
- Smithfield, executions in, VII. 111.

- Smyrna fleet; miscarriage of the, VII. 225. The misfortune discussed in the House of Commons, VII. 282. Speech of Montague respecting, VII. 282. The fleet voted to have been treacherously mismanaged, VII. 283.
- Snatt, the nonjuring divine; his conduct at the execution of Friend and Parkyns, VIII. 141. Arrested, VIII. 142. Set at liberty, VIII. 143.
- Solmes, Count; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11. 13. 16. 18. Appointed Commander in Chief of the army in Ireland, VI. 48. His conduct at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93. 94. Universally disliked, VII. 115. 116. Mortally wounded at the battle of Landen, VII. 219.
- Somers, John (afterwards Lord Somers); conducts the prosecutions of Preston and his accomplices, VI. 130. Made Attorney General, VII. 121. Opposes the Bill for the Regulation of Trials in cases of High Treason, VII. 121. Takes the chair in a Committee of Ways and Means, VII. 137. Appointed Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, VII. 187. His eminence in the Whig party, VII. 263. His public and private character, VII. 263. 264. His accomplishments, VII. 265. His munificent patronage of genius and learning, VII. 265.
- Charged with irreligion and immorality, VII. 266. His plan for the restoration of the currency, VIII. 97. Created Baron of Evesham, VIII. 236.
- Somerset, Duke of; entertains King William at Marlborough, VI. 63.
- Sovereign of England; reigns but does not govern, VI. 122. 123. Peculiar prerogatives of the, VI. 240.
- Spain; her fallen greatness, VII. 75. Disorganisation of its whole administration, VII. 76. Charles II. and his minister Gastanaga, VII. 76. The French plan for compelling her to sue for peace, VII. 319. Catalonia ravaged by the French under Noailles, VII. 325. The French driven out by the English fleet, under Russell, VII. 325. Wretched condition of her army and navy, VII. 326.
- Speke, Hugh, VII. 185. 328.
- Spice Islands; the Dutch in the, VI. 272.
- Sprat, Bishop of Rochester; plot of Robert Young to implicate him and other divines, VII. 60. Taken into custody, VII. 63. Examined by the Council, VII. 64.
- Stair, Master of (Sir John Dalrymple); his joy at the delay of Mac Ian of Glencoe in taking the oath, VII. 9. His character and talents, VII. 11. Probable causes for his

- hatred of Mac Ian of Glencoe, VII. 11. 12. His hatred of the lawless Highland clans, VII. 13. His plans for exterminating them, VII. 14. 15. Induces the King to sign the order for their destruction, VII. 17. The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 23. His mortification at the escape of so many of the clan, VII. 30. Accompanies William to Holland, VII. 88. His letters the sole cause of the massacre of Glencoe, VIII. 40. Censured by the Scottish Parliament, VIII. 41. His crime extenuated by the Scottish Parliament, VIII. 41—44. Dismissed by the King for his connection with the Glencoe massacre, VIII. 45.
- Stamford; visit of William III. to, VIII. 43.
- Stamford, Earl of; entertains William III. at Bradgate, VIII. 45.
- Stamp duties, origin of the, VII. 299.
- States General; King William's attendance at a sitting of the, VI. 120.
- Steinkirk, battle of, VII. 91—95.
- Stewart, James; promises made to him by Mary of Modena, VI. 82.
- Steward, Court of the Lord High, VI. 265. 266. VII. 122. Case of Lord Mohun, VII. 124. 125.
- Stillington, Bishop; attends the consecration of Tillotson, VI. 149.
- Stock-jobbers; origin of, VII. 133. 135. note.
- Strathspey, rout of, VI. 70.
- Subsidies, granted by Parliament for the extraordinary necessities of the Government, VII. 127. Amount of subsidies at various periods, VII. 127. note.
- Sunderland, Robert Spencer, Earl of; hated by the nation, VII. 250. His apostacy, VII. 250. His escape to Rotterdam, VII. 251. Thrown into prison there, but released, VII. 251. His second apostacy, VII. 251. Puts forth an apology, VII. 252. His return to England, VII. 252. Retires into seclusion, VII. 253. Reappears in Parliament, VII. 253. His art of whispering, VII. 253. Takes a residence near Whitehall, and is consulted on English politics by the King, VII. 255. He advises the King to give the preference to the Whigs, VII. 256. His reasons, VII. 256. Effects a reconciliation between William and the Princess Anne, VIII. 27. His seat of Althorpe visited by King William, VIII. 73. Appointed Lord Chamberlain, VIII. 237.
- Supremacy; Act of, repealed in Scotland, VI. 75.

- Sutherland, Earl of; introduces into the Scottish Parliament the law fixing the ecclesiastical constitution of Scotland, VI. 76.
- Sweden; her menacing demeanour, VII. 70.
- Swift, Dr. Jonathan; his remarks on the conquered Irish, VI. 227. note. His attack on the Government, VI. 228. His residence at Moor Park, VII. 181. His early life, VII. 182. Sent from Temple to explain his views on the Triennial Bill to the King, VII. 183. His remarks on Lord Somers, VII. 262. note. His character of Thomas Wharton, VII. 271. His opinion of Elizabeth Villiers, VII. 284.
- Taafe, the informer, VII. 330.—334.
- Talmash, Thomas; serves under Ginkell in Ireland, VI. 192. His share in the siege of Athlone, VI. 199. 200. And at the Battle of Aghrim, VI. 204. High opinion entertained of his military qualifications, VII. 116. Appointed to the command of the troops on board of the Earl of Berkeley's squadron, VII. 320. Lands at Brest, VII. 321. 322. Mortally wounded, VII. 323.
- Tangier battalions; the two, at the battle of the Boyne, VI. 10.
- Tankerville, Earl of, VIII. 145.
- Tarbet; his plan for pacifying the Highlands, VII. 1.
- Tavistock, Marquess of (son of Lord William Russell) VIII. 79. 80.
- Taxation: in the years 1692, 1693, VII. 131.
- Tea; introduction of, into England, VI. 244. Increase in the imports of, before the end of the 17th century, VI. 244.
- Teignmouth; ravaged by the French under Tourville, VI. 38.
- Temple, Sir William; his work on the Batavian Federation referred to, VII. 137. Consulted by the King on the Triennial Bill, VII. 180. Sends his Secretary, Swift, to convey his opinion to the King, VII. 183.
- Third Party, the, in Europe, VII. 71.
- Thomond Bridge, affair of, VI. 212.
- Tillotson, Archbishop; consecrated Archbishop of Canterbury, VI. 149. Respect paid to him by the peers, VI. 150. His popularity in the City of London, VI. 150. Libels of the Jacobites on him, VI. 150, 151. His forgiveness of his enemies, VI. 152. His death, VII. 335. Kindness of William to his widow, VII. 336. Price realised by his sermons, VII. 336.

- Time bargains; origin of, VII. 134. 135.
- Titus, Colonel; his speech on the Commons' Triennial Bill, VII. 156. His speech on the Lords' Bill, VII. 290. 291.
- Tonson; the bookseller, VIII. 89.
- Torbay; an army of volunteers formed near, to repel the threatened French invasion, VI. 38. 39. The command taken by Lord Lansdowne, VI. 39.
- Tories; their feelings on the state of the law for regulating the trials for treason, VI. 262—264. State of parties in 1692, VII. 112. The Tories' hatred of the national debt, VII. 137. Their view of Parliamentary Reform, VII, 144. etseq. Their opposition to the Triennial Bill, VII. 156. Their insular policy, VII. 258. The chiefs of the Tory party, VII. 273. Seymour, VII. 273. Musgrave, VII. 273. Harley, VII. 274. Foley, VII. 275. Howe, VII. 276. State of parties at the general election of 1695, VIII. 77.
- Torrington, Herbert, Earl of; consultation amongst the Judges relative to his trial, VI. 100. 101. Brought to trial and acquitted, VI. 102. Dimissed by the King from the service, VI. 103.
- Torture; declared by the Scottish Claim of Right to be, under certain circumstances, according to law, VI. 86.
- Tournay; headquarters of Villeroy at, VI. 344.
- Tourville, Admiral; his unopposed range of the Channel, VI. 35. His galleys and their practical value, VI. 35. Ravages Teignmouth, VI. 38. His exploits inglorious and impolitic, VI. 40. Appointed to the command of the Brest fleet, VII. 34. Sets sail for England, VII. 48. Gives battle to the English fleet, VII. 49. His flight, VII. 50. Presents himself before Lewis at Versailles, VII. 87. Commands the Brest squadron, VII. 226. Joins Estrees at Gibraltar, VII. 226. Destroys the Smyrna fleet at Lagos, VII. 227. His squadron sent to Barcelona, VII. 319.
- Trade; powers of the English monarchs for the regulation of, VI. 240. Monopolies created in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, VI. 241. Those granted by James I., VI. 241. The East India Company, VI. 242. Child's remarks on free trade, VI. 260.
- Treason; debate in Parliament on the bill for regulating Trials in cases of, VI. 261. The former method of conducting trials, VI. 261. 262. The bill passed by the Commons, VI. 265. The chief

- enactments of it, VI. 265. Sent to the Upper House, VI. 265. Returned amended, but rejected by the Commons, VI. 266. 267. Reasons for opposing the Lords' amendment, VI. 268—271. The bill suffered to drop, VI. 271. The bill resumed by the House of Commons, VII. 121. Suffered again to drop, VII. 122. Again brought in, VII. 288. But thrown out, VII. 289. Again introduced, and again lost, VII. 341. Passing of the Act for the Regulation of Trials in cases of, VIII. 106.
- Treby; made Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, VII. 231.
- Tredenham; opposes the Triennial Bill, VII. 156.
- Trenchard, John; appointed Secretary of State with Nottingham, VII. 184. Account of him, VII. 185. His real position, VII. 185. Complaints of his administration, VII. 328. His severity to the Jacobites, VII. 328. The Lancashire prosecutions, VII. 329. Failure of his health, VII. 338. His death, VIII. 47.
- Trevor, Sir John; employed to corrupt members of the House of Commons, VII. 118. His integrity suspected, VII. 185. His duties as an equity judge inefficiently performed, VII. 185. His venality, VII. 273. VIII. 12. Found guilty and censured by the House, the question being put by himself, VIII. 14. Expelled from the House, VIII. 15.
- Triennial Bill; passed by the House of Lords, VII. 155. 156. Refusal of the King to pass it, VII. 180. Again brought into the House of Commons, VII. 289. Thrown out, VII. 289. Passes into a law, VII. 340.
- Trouin, Du Guay; the freebooter, VII. 106.
- Trumball, Sir William; appointed subordinate Secretary of State, VIII. 47.
- Turks; defeated in battle by Lewis of Baden, VI. 179. Opposed to Lewis of Baden on the Danube, VII. 88. Compel the generals of the Empire to raise the siege of Belgrade, VI. 241.
- Turner, Bishop of Ely; his letter to James, VI. 109. Charged by Preston with treasonable conduct, VI. 133. Warrant issued for his apprehension, VI. 136. Escapes to France, VI. 136.
- Tweedale, John Hay, Marquess of; appointed Lord High Commissioner of the Scottish Parliament, VIII. 34.
- Tyburn, VI. 68. Interest of the Londoners in an execution at, VIII. 139. 141.
- Tyreconnel, Richard Talbot, Earl of; his share in the - battle of the Boyne, VI. 13.

 16. 17. Marches out of Dublin, VI. 27. Retires to Limerick, VI. 49. Disapproves of holding Limerick, VI. 53. Mean estimate entertained by the French officers of his military qualities, VI. 53. Retires to Galway, leaving a strong garrison in Limerick, VI. 54. Goes with Lauzun to France, VI. 62. His return to Ireland, VI. 189. Representations made to James respecting his incapacity, VI. 189. His increasing mental and bodily infirmities, VI. 196. His interference with Saint Ruth in the field, VI. 196. 197. His dislike of Sarsfield, VI. 197. Clamours of Tyrconnel's enemies, VI. 197. 200. Returns to Limerick, VI. 201. His popularity in Limerick, VI. 209. His preparations for defending Limerick, VI. 209. His despondency, VI. 210. His death, VI. 210. His burial place, VI. 210.
- Tyrconnel, Lady (Fanny Jennings), VI. 25.
- Ulster, origin of the annual donation to the government to the Presbyterians of, VI. 4.
- Uzes, Duke of; slain at Landen, VII. 222.
- Vauban, Marshal de; present at the siege of Mons, VI. 127.
- His skill as a military engineer, VII. 83. Conducts the siege of Namur, VII. 83. 84. Places Brest in a high state of defence, VII. 321.
- Vaudemont, Prince of; his high opinion of Marlborough's talents as a general, VI. 176. Left in Flanders to watch Villeroy, VIII. 49. His skilful manœuvre, VIII. 50. Joins the allies before Namur, VIII. 54.
- Vendome, Lewis Duke of; his conduct at the battle of Steinkirk, VII. 93.
- Versailles; Lord Middleton's account of, VII. 210.
- Vertue, the engraver; patronised by Lord Somers, VII. 265.
- Veto; the, of the Sovereign, VI. 292.
- Victor Amadeus of Savoy; joins the league against France, VI. 95. His military fame, VI. 95. Grants a toleration for the Waldenses, VI. 125.
- Villeroy, Marshal the Duke of; appointed to conduct the campaign of 1695, VIII. 44. His ignorance of the duties of a great general, VI. 44. Fixes his headquarters at Tournay, VIII. 46. His carelessness in allowing Vaudemont to escape to Ghent, VIII. 50. Takes Dixmuyde and Deynse, VIII. 53. Bombards Brussels, VIII. 54. Goes to the relief

- of Namur, but withdraws, VIII. 58.
- Villiers, Elizabeth; her influence over the Prince of Orange while at the Hague, VII. 284. Her qualifications of mind, VII. 284.
- Waldeck, Prince; defeated at Fleurus by the French under the Duke of Luxemburg, VI. 47.
- Walker, the Reverend George; appointed by William III. to the see of Derry, VI. 12. Accompanies the army of William, VI. 13. His share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 19. Shot dead, VI. 19.
- Walker; his work on the Icon Basilike, VII. 161.
- Wall; his high position in Spain, VI. 227.
- War; progress in the art of, produced by civilisation, VII. 221.
- Warrington, Lord, VII. 163.
- Warwick Castle; visit of William III. to, VIII. 75.
- Wauchop; his hope in the success of the garrison of Limerick, VI. 209.
- Waldenses; toleration obtained for them by William III., VI. 125.
- Waterford, taken by William III., VI. 48.
- Welbeck; visit of William III. to, VIII. 74.
- Welwood; his paper the Observer, VIII. 64.
- Weymouth, Thomas Thynne, Viscount; offers an asylum to Bishop Ken, VI. 153.
- Wharton, Thomas; his early life, VII. 273. His licentiousness, VII. 273. His mendacity and effrontery, VII. 274. His stud., VII. 274. His art of electioneering, VII. 275. His services to the Whig party, VII. 275. Opinions of the Whigs and Tories of his character, VII. 276. Personally disliked by the King, VII. 280. Obtains a committee to examine the books of the City of London and the East India Company, VIII. 13. 14. His report to the House of Commons of the proceedings of the joint Committee of both Houses as to the bribery of the East India Company, VIII. 20. Sent to the Lords to inform the House that the Commons had resolved to impeach the Duke of Leeds, VIII. 23. Moves the Address, VIII. 99.
- Whigs; their vindictiveness against the nonjuring bishops, VI. 45. Their animosity against Caermarthen, VI. 103. Their sneers at Sherlock, VI. 161. Their remarks on the state of the law for regulating the trials for treason, VI. 262. 263. State of parties in 1692, VII. 111. Whig view of Parliamentary Reform, VII. 144. et seq. The Whigs support the Triennial Bill, VII. 156. Sunderland

- advises William to give the preference to the Whigs, VII. 258. Reasons for this preference, VII. 258. Authority exercised by the chiefs of the party over the whole Whig body, VII. 259. Russell, VII. 259. Somers, VII. 263. Montague, VII. 267. Wharton, VII. 272. The government entrusted to Whigs, VII. 283. Gradual formation of a Whig ministry, VII. 318. State of parties at the general election of 1695, VIII. 77. A purely Whig ministry formed, VIII. 193. Feelings of the Whigs about Fenwick, VIII. 194. Especial marks of royal favour bestowed on the Whigs, VIII. 235.
- Whitefriars; privileges of, abolished, VIII. 233.
- Whitney, James; the highwayman, VII. 110.
- William III.; Lands at Carrickfergus, and proceeds to Belfast, VI. 1. Meets with Schomberg, VI. 1. His joyful reception by the Protestants, VI. 2. His arrival made known to James, VI. 2. 3. His military arrangements, VI. 3. Bestows a donation on the dissenting divines of Ulster, VI. 4. His popularity with his army, VI. 4. 5. His march southward, VI. 5. Reaches the valley of the Boyne, and surveys the Irish lines, VI. 8. State of his army, VI. 10. Alights and breakfasts at Oldbridge, VI. 11. Is wounded, VI. 12. The battle of the Boyne, VI. 15. Heads the left wing himself, VI. 16. Crosses the river, VI. 19. Charges in the thickest of the fight, and changes the fortune of the day, VI. 19. His disregard of danger, VI. 20. James's flight to Dublin, VI. 21. Losses sustained by the two armies, VI. 23. Advances to Duleek, VI. 24. Surrender of Drogheda, VI. 24. William enters Dublin, VI. 29. Receives the news of the defeat of Waldeck, VI. 47. Writes a kind letter to Waldeck, VI. 47. Intelligence brought of the defeat of Torrington's fleet, VI. 47. Takes Waterford, and the fort of Duncannon, VI. 48. Sets out for England, VI. 48. Returns to the army at Cashel, VI. 49. Receives a letter from the Queen respecting a proposal of Marlborough for reducing Cork and Kinsale, VI. 49. Orders Marlborough to execute his plan, VI. 49. Marches to besiege Limerick, VI. 54. His artillery surprised by Sarsfield, VI. 55. 56. Repairs his loss and proceeds to batter the town, VI. 57. His army suffers from the rains, VI. 60. The assault on Limerick unsuccessful, VI. 60. Raises the siege, VI. 61. Returns to England, VI. 62.

His progress to London, VI. 63. His reception, VI. 63. His difficulties with the Scottish Parliament, VI. 71. His exclamation respecting Scotland and Hamilton, VI. 72. Distrust and abhorrence with which he regarded Montgomery, VI. 84. The opinion of the nonjurors of Scotland respecting William, VI. 90. His dissatisfaction with the ecclesiastical arrangements in Scotland, VI. 93. Sends a Commissioner and a letter to the General Assembly, VI. 94. Respectful answer of the Assembly, VI. 95. State of affairs on the Continent, VI. 95. Victor Amadeus of Savoy joins the coalition, VI. 95. William reassembles the Parliament, VI. 96. His speech from the throne, VI. 96. His dismissal of Torrington from the service, VI. 102. Gives the vacant seals to Sidney, VI. 104. A Jacobite conspiracy, VI. 106. The plot discovered, VI. 112. The Parliament adjourned, VI. 114. Sets out for the Congress of the Hague, VI. 114. Sails for Holland, VI. 115. His dangers, VI. 115. Lands at Goree, VI. 116. His joyful reception by the Dutch, VI. 116. His feelings on his arrival in his native land, VI. 116. His entrance into the Hague, VI. 116. Attends a sitting of the States General, VI. 120. Meeting of the great Congress at the Hague, VI. 120. Speech of William at the first meeting of the Congress, VI. 122. Conducts the department of foreign affairs himself, VI. 122. His peculiar talents as a negotiator, VI. 123. 124. He obtains a toleration for the Waldenses, VI. 125. Hastens to the relief of Mons, VI. 127. 128. Returns to England, VI. 129. Trials of the Jacobite conspirators, VI. 129. William's unassuming nature, VI. 135. Treachery of some of his servants, VI. 165. He returns to the Continent, VI. 176. His sojourn at Loo, VI. 176. Despatches Marlborough to form a camp near Brussels, VI. 176. Commencement of the campaign in Flanders, VI. 178. Splendour of his headquarters, VI. 179. Progress of the war in Ireland, VI. 180—231. Pacification of the kingdom, VI. 231. William returns to England, VI. 232. Summons the Parliament, VI. 232. Requested by the House of Commons to dissolve the Old East India Company, VI. 261. His alarm and annoyance at the discovery of the treasonable designs of Marlborough, VI. 276. Dismisses Marlborough from his command, VI. 277.

Obstinaey of the Princess Anne punished by the King and Queen, VI. 281. 282. Commands the adjournment of Parliament, VI. 292. Puts his Veto on a bill, VI. 292. Circumstances under which he used his Veto, VI. 293—295. Makes some changes in his household and in the ministry, VI. 296. His dissatisfaction with the state of religious feeling in Scotland, VI. 298. Signs the order for the destruction of the people of Glencoe, VII. 17. 18. His exculpation, VII. 18. The massacre of Glencoe, VII. 23. William goes to the Continent, VII. 30. Determination of the French government to send an expedition to England, VII. 33. Effect of James's Declaration in England, VII. 42. The English and Dutch fleets join, VII. 46. The battle of La Hogue, VII. 48. William's foreign policy, VII. 69. Succeeds in preventing the dissolution of the coalition, VII. 76. Lewis takes the field, VII. 81. Siege of Namur, VII. 82. Battle of Steinkirk, VII. 91. Conspiracy of Grandval, VII. 97. William returns to England, VII. 101. Distress in England, VII. 107. Increase of crime, VII. 107. Meeting of Parliament, VII. 111. The King's speech, VII. 112. Debates on the state of the nation, VII. 113. Sends a message to the House of Commons informing them that he cannot dissolve the Old East India Company, VII. 126. His opposition to the Triennial Bill, VII. 155. Address of the Commons on the state of Ireland, VII. 180. The King refuses to pass the Triennial Bill, VII. 180. Ministerial arrangements, VII. 184. William's departure for Holland, VII. 187. Opinion entertained of him by French statesmen of his day, VII. 210. 211. William's anxieties and difficulties, VII. 212. Encamps near Louvain, VII. 214. Advances to Nether Hesperen, VII. 216. Ruse of Luxemburg, VII. 216. William fortifies his position, VII. 216. The battle of Landen, VII. 216. William charges the French guards, VII. 219. His greatness of character displayed in battle, VII. 220. His retreat, VII. 220. 221. His ability and vigour in repairing his defeat, VII. 223. 224. Reaches Louvain and collects his forces, VII. 224. His anxiety for Portland, VII. 224. His return to England, VII. 240. His dislike of the House of Commons, VII. 246. Consults Sunderland on the question of the internal administration of the realm, VII. 255. Is induced to entrust the government to the Whig party, VII. 283. Influence exercised over him by Elizabeth Villiers while at the Hague, VII. 284. His interest in the Bill for the Regulation of Trials in cases of Treason, VII. 288. Refuses to pass the Place Bill, VII. 292. Receives a Representation from the House of Commons, VII. 293. His victory over the Commons, VII. 294. Prorogues Parliament, VII. 315. Induces Shrewsbury to accept the seals of Secretary of State, VII. 315. Bestows new titles on some of the chiefs of both parties, VII. 318. Goes to the Continent, VII. 319. The French plan of war, VII. 319. The English plan of war, VII. 319. The disaster at Brest, VII. 323. 324. William takes Huy, VII. 327. Returns to England, VII. 335. His kindness to the widow of Tillotson, VII. 336. Gives his assent to the Triennial Bill, VII. 341. Death of Mary, VII. 341. William founds Greenwich Hospital in memory of Mary, VII. 347. His distress, VIII. 3. His reconciliation with the Princess Anne, VIII. 26. Jacobite plots against his person, VIII. 30. His departure for Flanders, VIII. 34. How far he was to blame for not punishing the author of the massacre of Glencoe, VIII. 43. The Duke of Villeroy, the French Marshal, VIII. 44. William collects his army at Ghent, VIII. 46. He determines to retake Namur, VIII. 46. His marches and skirmishes, VIII. 47. His march straight upon Namur, VIII. 49. Directs the siege in person, VIII. 51. Appearance of Michael Godfrey in the camp, VIII. 52. Surrender of the town to the allies, VIII. 53. The French retire into the citadel, VIII. 53. William entrusts the siege to the Duke of Bavaria, and prepares to give Villeroy battle, VIII. 58. Capitulation of the castle of Namur, VIII. 58. William returns to England, VIII. 70. Dissolves the Parliament, VIII. 71. Visits the Princess Anne, VIII. 72. Makes a progress through the country, VIII. 72. Opens the session, VIII. 99. Parliamentary proceedings touching the grant of Crown lands in Wales to Portland, VIII. 108. Coolness between William and the Commons, VIII. 110. Formation of two Jacobite plots, VIII. 110. Berwick's plot, VIII. 111. The Assassination Plot, VIII. 111. William lands in Holland, VIII. 155. His military operations in the Netherlands, VIII. 155. Straits of his

- army, VIII. 155. William's popularity throughout the nation, VIII. 169. Negotiations with France, VIII. 170. Gloomy prospect before William, VIII. 172. His letter to the ministers respecting Fenwick's confession, VIII. 182. His return to England, VIII. 184. Meeting of the Parliament, VIII. 185. Vigorous resolutions of the House of Commons, VIII. 187. William examines Fenwick, VIII. 195. Sets out again for Holland, VIII. 242. Lewis offers terms of peace, VIII. 244. Congress of Ryswick, VIII. 248. William opens a distinct negotiation, VIII. 251. Terms of peace settled, VIII. 255. Difficulties caused by Spain and the Emperor, VIII. 257. The treaty of Ryswick signed, VIII. 260. William's entry into London, VIII. 265.
- William, King, and Queen Mary, Conquerors; storm raised by it, VII. 163.
- Williams, Sir William, VII. 333.
- Window tax; origin of the, VIII. 103.
- Wirtemberg, Regent of; attends the Congress at the Hague, VI. 120.
- Wirtemberg, Duke of, joins Ginkell at Ballymore with the Danish auxiliaries, VI. 193. His share in the siege of Athlone, VI. 198.
- Wolseley, Colonel; his share in the battle of the Boyne, VI. 11.
- Young, Robert; his history, VII. 57. Account of his plot, VII. 60. His agent Blackhead, VII. 60. Examined by the Privy Council, VII. 61. 65. Removed into custody, VII. 66. His accomplice Holland, VII. 67. Hanged for coining, VII. 68.
- Zeneyde, the; of Anthony Hamilton, VII. 193.
- Zulestein; accompanies King William to Holland, VI. 115.

END OF VOL. VIII.

PRINTED BY BERNHARD TAUCHNITZ.

