

The book cover is dark brown leather with a gold-tooled border. The border is highly decorative, featuring a repeating pattern of stylized, flowing lines that form a rectangular frame. The lines are thick and have a three-dimensional appearance, with some sections curving inward and others outward, creating a sense of depth and movement. The corners of the border are particularly ornate, with the lines curving and overlapping in a complex, Art Nouveau style. The leather shows signs of wear, with some scuffing and loss of material, especially at the corners and along the edges.
