

INDEX

To the principal Matters contained in the Historical Summary and Preface.

- ACHIEVEMENTS of a deceased uninstalled knight affixed, under a particular dispensation, to the stall designed for him, cxix, n. 4.
- Admonitions at investitures to be pronounced by the Chancellor or the next officer in seniority, cxvi.
- Albert, count palatine, duke of Bavaria, called "duke" of Holland; grounds for the admission of his name into the list of knights, xiii.
- Alexander I. emperor of Russia, his election into the Order under a special statute, and investiture at Töplitz, cxxxviii; assists in person at a chapter, clx.
- Almsdeeds on decease of a knight-subject, lxxxvii.
- Anne, queen, her manner of wearing the ensigns as Sovereign, cxxi; assumes her stall at Windsor, ibid.; sanctions a formulary for elections, cxxii.
- Annual grant for the use of the Order, cx.
- Arms encompassed by the Garter, when to be used, cix.
- Ashmole's catalogue of the knights, errors in, vi. vii.
- Assumption of the Sovereign's stall, the ceremonial described, cxxv.
- Badges decreed to be worn by Garter and Black-rod, ciii; of the Prelate and Register, described, cxvii.
- Banner, first mention of, amongst the achievements, lxxxvi. n. 1.
- Beaufort, John, earl of Somerset, victorious in a combat with John de Werchin in 1408, liv; Henry, bishop of Winchester, having been raised to the dignity of cardinal, is not allowed to attend St. George's feast as Prelate of the Order, lxx.
- Berwick, James duke of, his election declared void, cxix.
- Black-rod to present the sword of State for conferring knighthood at a chapter, cxviii.
- Bretagne, Gilles de, an alleged knight of the Order, notice of, xviii.
- Briga, Lewis duke of, incorrectly inserted amongst the knights by Ashmole, xviii.
- Burgundy, Philip duke of, elected K.G. 1422; causes of his refusal of the Order, lxii.
- Calais, chapter of the Order held at, 1532, xcii.
- Cecil, sir William, Chancellor of the Order, his autograph draft of the reformed statutes, xvii. cxix.
- Chancellor, office of, claimed by the bishop of Salisbury, cx; annexed to that see, cxiv; annexed to the see of Oxford, cxlvi.
- Chaplains, a knight of the Order to have three, xci.
- Chapter, number of knights required to form a, lxxxvii.
- Charles I. ordains the wearing of a star, cviii; ratifies a treaty with France in the presence of the knights, cix; state of the Order at the death of, cxii.
- Charles II, his installation whilst prince, in 1638, cxi; confers the Order during his exile, cxii.
- Charles X, king of France, invested at Paris, cxliii.
- Chivalry, rise of, xxv.
- Cobham, Henry lord, degraded, cv.
- Collar of the Order instituted by Henry VII, lxxviii; described, xc; when to be worn, ciii.
- Constitution of the Order, changes in the, cxxix. cxxxi.
- Dabrichecourt, sir John, elected to "the Prince's stall," in 1413, lv.
- Degradation of knights, ordinance relating to, xcii; of duke of Monmouth, cxvii; of James duke of Ormond, cxxv.
- Duras, Galeard lord, resigns the Order

- upon returning to his former allegiance, lxxii.
- Edward the Black Prince, remarks on the argument suggested by his knighthood in 1346, against Froissart's date of the foundation, xl.
- Edward IV. enters the Order as Sovereign, lxxvii; embarks at Lynn for Holland in Sept. 1470, but restored to the throne in March following, lxxviii; directs the rebuilding of St. George's chapel, lxxix; his banner, &c. suspended over the place of his sepulture there, lxxix; those funeral trophies removed in 1642, ibid. n. 2.
- Edward V. celebrates the festival of St. George at Ludlow, lxxix.
- Edward VI. not a knight of the Order before his accession, xciii; his creation to be prince of Wales contemplated, but not perfected by his father, ibid. n. 1; his knighthood by the protector Somerset, xciv; his reforms in the ceremonies of the Order consequent upon those of the church, ibid.; issues certain ordinances in 1549, xcvi; delivers a plan for the reform of the statutes, xcvi; its tenor, xcvi—ix; but not carried into effect, ibid.
- Elections at Caen in 1418, lix; term for, after decease of a knight-companion, lxxxvii; void for want of previous knighthood, xci; vidé voce, cvii; formulary to be used at, cxxii.
- Elizabeth, queen, ordains the revisal of the statutes, cii; new ordinances during her reign, ciii.
- Ensign and habit of the Order, l; when to be worn, lxxxv; to be returned on decease of a knight, civ; return of, with great solemnity, cix. cxx; allowed to be worn abroad before investiture, cxvi.
- Eric IX, king of Denmark, his achievements affixed to his stall in St. George's chapel many years after his election, lx; his installation fees discharged by the Sovereign, lxxiii.
- Fastolf, sir John, elected K.G. lxiv; narrative of his conduct at Patay, deprivation of the Order, and restoration, ibid. n. 1.
- Feast of St. George solemnised by Henry V. at Caen in 1418, and simultaneously at Windsor by the Sovereign's lieutenant, lix; solemnly kept at Windsor in 1476, lxx; at York in 1486, at Coventry in 1487, lxxvii; at Cambridge in 1506, lxxx; regulations concerning, lxxxv. ciii; virtual abrogation of, by Edward VI, xcvi; annual celebration of, at Windsor, discontinued 1567, ciii.
- Feats of arms temp. Hen. IV, liii.
- Ferdinand VII, king of Spain, invested at Madrid, cxli.
- Ferdinand prince of Brunswick, his investiture in view of the enemy's camp, cxxviii. n. 2.
- Foreign knights, ordinance touching their election, investiture, and installation, lxxxvi; their place in St. George's chapel in 1669, cxiv.
- Foreign princes elected temp. Henry IV, lv; Henry VI, lxvi; Henry VII, lxxvii; Henry VIII, xciii; Eliz. civ; James I, cvii; George I, cxxvii.
- Francis I, king of France, assists at a chapter of the Order, xcii.
- Francis I, emperor of Austria, invested at Vienna, cxli.
- Fraternities of Arms, their duties and object; supposed to have suggested the foundation of the military Orders, xxvii.
- Frederick VI, king of Denmark, invested at Copenhagen, cxlii.
- Frederick-William III, king of Prussia, invested at Carlton-house, clx.
- Froissart, his credibility touching the date of the foundation of the Order inferred from his superior means of information, as collected from passages in his life, xxxiv; his narrative of the institution, xxxvi; corroborated by coeval historical facts, xxxvii.
- Garter, Order of the, different theories concerning the date of its foundation considered, xxx. et seq.; evidence in favour of the date of 1344 assigned by Froissart, xxxiii; the primary knights of, supposed to have been victors at the jousts held in January 1343-4, xlii; theories for the adoption of a garter as the symbol of, xlii. xlvi; materials of which the first garters were made, l; first conferred upon a foreign king, liv.
- Garter king of arms, office of, instituted in 1417, lviii; his mantle, ci; his badge, ciii; not to deliver the ensigns to foreign princes until they have declared their acceptance of the Order, cx.
- George I. assumes his stall with pomp, cxxv.
- George III. dispenses with the ceremonies of installation in favour of twenty-four knights-elect, cxxxiii; dispenses with a chapter, and nominates a knight by his warrant, ibid.
- Habit and ensign of the Order, l.
- Hamilton, James 2nd marquess of, parti-

- cular honours at his election, cvii ; James 4th duke of, numbered by a particular dispensation amongst the installed knights, although he had died uninstalled, cxxiv ; his stall-plate affixed in 1836.
- Henry III. king of Castile, the inference, from a wardrobe account of 1401, that he was of the Order, rejected as unsupported by other evidence, xiv.
- Henry IV. state of the Order during his reign, lii ; feats of arms, and the challenge of John de Werchin, liii, and Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> xv ; collar worn by him, liii. n. 1.
- Henry VI. Sovereign, knighted by the duke of Bedford, lxv ; present at a chapter in 1425, when he had not completed the 4th year of his age, lxiii ; foreign potentates elected during his reign, lxvi ; his last act as Sovereign, ibid.
- Henry VII. enters the Order as Sovereign, lxxvi ; pompous assumption of his stall, ibid. ; oath taken by him to observe the statutes, ibid. n. 1 ; celebrates at York in 1486 the first feast during his reign, ibid. and at Coventry in 1487, lxxvii ; institutes the collar of the Order, lxxviii ; his rich bequest to the college of Windsor, lxxx.
- Henry VIII. promulgates a sumptuary law, with exception in favour of knights of the Garter, lxxxi. xcii ; proceeds with great state from Richmond to Windsor, and there signifies his resolution to reform the statutes, lxxxiii ; his alterations in, and additions thereto, in 1522, lxxxiv. xc ; chosen a knight of St. Michael, xci ; of the Golden Fleece and the Elephant, ibid. n. 3.
- Hood, the, described, lii ; to be delivered before installation, lxxxvii. n. 2.
- Installation, by proxy extended to knights-subjects in 1419, lix ; ordinance concerning, lxxxv ; by proxy, lxxxviii ; allowed to knights-subjects of foreign princes, cxiii ; long disuse of, cxxviii ; of twenty-four knights-elect dispensed with in 1801, cxxxiii.
- James I. his election to the Order temp. Eliz. civ. and n. 1.
- James II. confers the Order after his retirement to France, cxviii. n. 3.
- John II. king of Castile, the inference, from wardrobe accounts of 1408 and 1409, that he was a knight of the Order, rejected, xvi.
- John VI. king of Portugal, invested at Lisbon, cxlii.
- Jousts, distinction gained at those held in January 1343-4 supposed to have governed the primary nominations to the Order, xlii.
- Keeper of the seal of the Order, appointment of sir John Robessart, K.G. to that office in 1423, lxiii.
- Knight, a, attainted and restored in blood, may be re-elected, cxiii.
- Knights, their co-ordinate power with the Sovereign, cxix ; subjects, first election of supernumeraries, cxli.
- Knight-errantry, rise of, xxvii.
- Knighthood, consequent on the feudal system, xxv ; its antiquity, xxvi ; Orders of, xxviii ; of the king of Denmark's proctor dispensed with, cvi ; before election not to be required from foreign princes, cx ; to be performed with the sword of State, cxvi.
- Ladies, ensigns and robes of the Order worn by, attempt to revive the custom in 1638, cxl.
- Lewis XVIII. king of France, elected and invested at Carlton-house, cxxxix.
- Lieutenant for the Sovereign appointed on a special occasion by the knights, civ.
- Lifeguard, officer of, ordered to present the sword of State at a chapter in 1685, cxvii ; the order revoked in 1689, cxviii.
- Liveries of the Order provided for the royal family and the knights in 1480, lxxxiii.
- Mantle, the, description of, l ; to be deposited at Windsor, lxxxvii ; assigned to officers, ci ; colour of, cix ; of the Prelate and Chancellor, cx ; worn by an uninstalled knight at a chapter, cxiii. n. 2 ; ordinance to enforce the deposit at Windsor, cxlv.
- Mary I. the first queen on whom the sovereignty of the Order devolved, c ; her marriage, and the joint exercise of the sovereignty by her and king Philip, ibid.
- Masses, sums paid for, applied to the repair of highways and the relief of the poor, xcii.
- Monmouth, James duke of, degraded, cxvii.
- Montacute, Thos. de, 4th earl of Salisbury, his name erroneously entered amongst those of knights of the Order in a wardrobe account of 1409, xvii.
- Mont Grison, count de, the doubt respecting a knight so described in all catalogues of the Order, removed, xx—xxiv.
- Monte Odorisio, Inigo d'Avalos count de,

- elected knight of the Order in 1467 ; notice of, xxii--xxiv.
- Nicholas I, emperor of Russia, invested at St. Petersburg, cxliii.
- Nomination of a knight of the Order by the Sovereign's warrant, the first instance of, cxxxiii.
- Northumberland, Algernon Percy 10th earl of, installed with particular pomp, cx ; George Fitzroy duke of, allowed to wear the ensigns abroad before investiture, cxvi.
- Oath of a knight, lxxxviii--ix ; addition to, cxxvii.
- Offering of achievements of deceased knights, regulations concerning, lxxxvi ; of the banner of Henry VIII. dispensed with, xciv.
- Officers of the Order in the reign of the Founder, lii ; ordinance concerning, lxxxvii.
- Order, the, first enlargement of, in 1786, cxxxi ; second ditto, in 1805, cxxxv ; third ditto, in 1831, cxliv.
- Orders of knighthood, religious and military, their origin, xxviii.
- Ordinances in chapter, 1423, lxiii ; in 1477, lxxii ; temp. Car. I, cx.
- Orisons, ordinance touching, xc.
- Ormond, James 2nd duke of, degraded from the Order, cxxv.
- Oxford, bishop of, appointed Chancellor, and the office annexed to the see, cxlvi.
- Paget, William lord, degraded from the Order by Edward VI, xcvi ; restored by queen Mary, c.
- Philip I, king of Castile, takes shelter from a violent tempest in the port of Melcombe Regis, 17th Jan. 1505-6, lxxix ; and invested with the Order at Windsor, lxxx.
- Philip II, prince of Spain and king of England by courtesy, his installation and joint exercise of the sovereignty of the Order, c. ci ; his banner removed from the Sovereign's stall, cii.
- Poor Knights of Windsor, their number fixed at thirteen by Henry VIII, lxxxvii ; ordinance in favour of, by queen Mary, ci ; their designation altered to that of " Military Knights of Windsor," cxlv.
- Precedency of knights of the Order, ordinance relative to, lxxxvi. xci ; in the royal chapel, ciii ; in the house of commons, civ ; of stalls, cxiv ; of knights-strangers in the royal chapel, cxiv.
- Prelate, the, his badge described, cxvii.
- Qualification for election, lxxxiv.
- Regency, the, 1812-1820, acts of the Order during, cxxxvi.
- Register, the office of, annexed to the deanery of Windsor, cix ; the, his badge described, cxvii.
- Reproach, points of, lxxxiv.
- Riband of the Order, the colour of, decreed, 1622, cvii ; ordained to be worn scarf-wise over the left shoulder, 1682, cxv ; colour of, ibid. n. 2.
- Richard III, few transactions within the Order during his reign, lxxv.
- Robessart, sir John, K.G. appointed keeper of the seal of the Order, lxiii.
- Rupert, father and son, successively counts palatine, dukes of Bavaria, reasons for not admitting the name of either of those princes into the list of knights, xi. xii.
- St. George, patron of the Order, xlviii.
- St. George's chapel, architectural improvements of, begun by Edward IV, and completed by Henry VII, lxxx.
- Salisbury, countess of, her supposed amour with Edward III, and its connection with the institution of the Order, xliii--xlvi.
- Salisbury, bishop of, his petition claiming the office of Chancellor in 1636 not complied with, cx ; that office annexed to the see, cxiv.
- Saxony, John George elector of, his banner, &c. affixed after his decease to the stall intended for him, cxix.
- Scrope, Henry lord, of Masham, K.G. attainted for treason, and the Order absolved from consequent disgrace by a declaration in parliament, lv.
- Seal of the Order, by whom to be kept, lxxxix.
- Sigismund, the emperor, a visitor to the English court in 1416, elected K.G. and installed at Windsor, lvii.
- Sixtus IV, pope, transmits a sword and cap of maintenance to Edward IV. in 1482, lxxiv.
- Sovereign, the, reverences to, ordained by the knights in 1418, lix ; directed to be made first to the altar, lx ; offers the helm of a deceased brother, ibid. ; receives knighthood from a subject, lxxv. xciv.
- Spinola, Paul Baptist, an alleged knight of the Order, notice of, xix.
- Stalls in St. George's chapel, the succession in, ordained by Hen. VIII, lxxxviii ; increase of, in 1801, cxxxiv.
- Stall-plates in St. George's chapel, account of, x ; ordinance concerning, lxxxviii.

- Star, the, not to be worn before installation, cxv.
- Statutes of the Order, précis of the earliest known, xlviij—l; additions to, decreed by Henry V. in 1421, lx; explained, altered, and augmented by Henry VIII, lxxiv—xc; copies of, to be provided for the knights, lxxxix; to be returned after the knight's death to Windsor college, ibid. and cx; revisal of, ordained by queen Eliz. cii; deviations from, cxxix.
- Suffrages to be registered, although no election thereupon, ciii.
- Surcoat, the, described, li.
- Sussex, earl of, challenged to a duel when on his way to Windsor, 1609, and the challenger arrested, cvii.
- Table Ronde, its antiquity in England, and revival by Edward III, supposed to have led to the foundation of the Order of the Garter, xxix.
- Trains of knights at their installation, cvi, cviii, cx.
- Under-habit appointed to be uniform, cxiii.
- Walker, sir Edward, Garter, his care to record the acts of the Order between 1638 and 1660, cxii.
- Wardrobe, Great, accounts of, afford prima facie evidence of contemporary knights, ix; instances of clerical mistakes therein, xiv—xviii.
- Wentworth, sir Philip, incorrectly included among the knights of the Order by Ashmole, xviii.
- Werchin, John de, challenges the knights of the Garter to feats of arms, liii; Appendix, N<sup>o</sup> xv.
- Windsor, or French tables, account of, viii; castle, the scene of the solemnities of the Order, xlvii; college of, incorporated, with perpetual succession, in 1479, and the knights swear to aid, support, and defend it, lxxiii; constitution of, lxxxvi; contributions to, by knights-subjects, lxxxviii; residence of knights there, xc; dean of, to be always Register of the Order, cix.
- Wolsey, Cardinal, appointed, as lord chancellor, in chapter to determine matters at issue between the dean and canons and the poor knights, xci.